Restoration Of Milk Ban Postponed For 2 Months

Commission Lacks Authority to Bar 'Outside' Imports, Young Testifies

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The District Commissioners voted late yesterday to postpone for 60 days their order barring the sale in Washington of all milk from outside the Washington milkshed.

In taking the surprise action, the Commissioners yielded to demands from several congressional sources and some independent dairies.

The move took place only a few hours after Commissioner John Russell Young told the Senate Agriculture Committee's subcommittee on food prices, headed by Senator Guy M. Gillette (D., Iowa), that the commission has no authority to remove the ban against outside milk.

Must Be D. C.-Inspected

Young was supported by District Corporation Counsel Vernon L. West. West had ruled the District milk law, sometimes called the Copeland Act, does not permit any milk in the District except from farms inspected by District of Columbia inspectors.

West engaged in a spirited argument with Committee Counsel Paul Hadlick, who disputed West's ruling. Hadlick read into the record part of the debate at the time the law was passed. The late Senator Copeland (D., N. Y.), who wrote the bill, stated in debate it would not restrict imports of outside milk, and was not intended to, Hadlick said. Advising with Hadlick were attorneys for the Embassy and Wakefield dairies, which opposed the Commissioners' proposal to reinstate the ban.

Under the Copeland Act all milk from outside the Washington milkshed was barred from 1925 until 1942. Wartime demand forced removal of the ban for the war period. Two weeks ago the Commissioners voted to reinstate it July 1. The action yesterday postpones that until September 1. Meantime, the Commissioners will hold a hearing July 10 on revising the Copeland

Judge Refuses To Stay Order Killing Gas Rise

The Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday failed again to keep the $750,000 annual rate boost granted it last November by the Public Utilities Commission.

District Court Judge T. Alan Goldsborough refused to let the utility company post a supersedeas bond that would have kept the rate increase in effect until litigation in the case is decided by the United States Court of Appeals.

On petition of consumers' attorneys, the judge had earlier set aside the increased revenue on the ground that it was "arbitrary, cynical and illegal."

Later in the day, the gas company filed with the United States Court of Appeals a motion to stay execution of Goldsborough's set-aside order pending appeal.

Bill Relaxing Hatch Law Is Vetoed

By Jerry Kluttz
Post Reporter

The President yesterday vetoed a bill which would have allowed Federal workers to participate in local partisan politics in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Mr. Truman told the Congress he objected to such a provision as well as to another proposal in the bill to give congressional committees the right to examine confidential documents relating to political activity cases.

On the other hand, he invited the Congress to send him a bill covering three points which he said he'd be glad to approve. These provisions are:

1. To give the Civil Service Commission the discretion to fix the penalties of employes found guilty of violating the Hatch (no politics) Act.

2. To require annual reports to Congress on Hatch Act violations.

3. To make it illegal to distribute political literature without identifying its sponsors.

In his veto message, the President went into detail to explain

Jury Indicts Ambrose on 24 Counts

Ex-Postal Official Now Facing Trial In Stamp Deals

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

Harold F. Ambrose was indicted yesterday on 24 counts of fraud in connection with a $630,000 get-rich-quick stamp deal.

The former special assistant to the Postmaster General faces maximum sentences of 169 years in jail and fines of more than $200,000 if tried and convicted on all counts.

He was indicted on 10 charges of mail fraud, 7 charges of receiving money "under color of his office," 4 counts of larceny after trust, and 3 of false pretenses.

Ambrose was accused of operating a stamp swindle from September, 1948, to January 1950. The approximate loss to "investors," was said by the Justice Department to be between $200,000 and $300,000.

The 22-page indictment charged that Ambrose obtained money by false pretenses from 16 individuals, including Joe Adonis, the "boss of the Brooklyn rackets."

Ambrose was released under $2500 bond by District Judge Alexander Holtzoff in his chambers late in the afternoon.

According to the indictment, Ambrose represented to the investors that because of his official position he could obtain special issues of commemorative stamps and sell them to stamp dealers and collectors at profits up to 150 percent.

Eight persons named in the indictment as investors in the plan were:

William J. David, 1431 Montana ave. ne., operator of the Brentwood Village apartments; Miss Hertha J. Bohrer, 2735 29th st. nw.; Al-

Reds Cut Off West Berlin's Electricity

Threat to Interrupt 'El' Trains Issued; Berliners Now Ask: Is Blockade Coming?

Berlin, June 30 (NYHT.).—The Russians cut off their supply of water and electricity to West Berlin tonight and openly stated they would follow up this action by interrupting elevated train service in the non-Communist part of this divided city.

Berliners are now anxiously waiting to see whether these moves will lead to a renewal of the Soviet blockade of Berlin in an attempt to divert western strengths and attention from the war in Korea. West Berlin Mayor Ernst Reuter attributed the cuts in the water and electricity supply to a Soviet attempt at diversion.

West Berlin authorities assured the public today that the Soviet action will not succeed in interrupting their supply of water and electricity. They said that West Berlin, with its own resources, now is in a position to meet the needs of its 2,100,000 people.

West Berlin has been paying East Berlin one million west marks monthly for the electric power which it has been supplying. The Soviet decision to cut the supply was attributed to the western refusal to pay more than this amount after the current contract expires at midnight tonight.

The Soviet threat to disrupt elevated train service appeared in Communist newspapers, which charged that the "Anglo-American war-mongers" plan to divide the elevated line between East and West. Instead of permitting the circular line, now operated under Soviet control, to continue serving the entire system, the Anglo-Americans intend to capture as many trains as possible and then operate only that part of the line which runs through the Western sectors, according to the Communist story.

Western authorities ridiculed the charges but read into them a possible Soviet intention of using them as an excuse for committing the very disruptive actions which the Communists are attributing to others. This frequently happened here in the past.

Other indications of a renewed aggressive attitude on the part of the Russians took the form of polls being conducted among workers to determine whether they would fight with Russia in the event of war.

Truman Signs Rent-Control and Child-Care Bills

President Truman late yesterday signed into law bills to continue District rent control and the child day-care program.

Rent control will extend until January 31, 1951, leaving it to Congress to decide when it convenes next January if curbs should be further prolonged.

The measure will lift ceilings on single, non-housekeeping furnished rooms in hotels and boarding houses, beginning today.

Airforce Told To Hit Above 38th Parallel

Truman Authorizes Bombing in North, Ground Troops Use And Naval Blockade

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

President Truman gave the Air Force its long-awaited permission yesterday to bomb supply lines, bases and other military targets in Communist North Korea.

He also ordered the Navy to blockade the entire Korean coastline, and authorized the Army to send "certain supporting ground units" into the Korean battle area.

These decisions meant the end of self-imposed restraints that had hampered the American efforts to push the Communists back into their own territory north of the 38th parallel.

Until now, the "police action" in Korea has been confined to air sorties south of the line and naval action around the coast of the South Korean territory.

The President used the same procedure as he did on Tuesday, when he announced his historic decision to use force against the Communist invasion.

In the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, he met the Joint Chiefs of Staff and civilian heads of the armed services.

Two hours later he disclosed his plans to a meeting of the Cabinet, with military and Congressional leaders present. Those from Congress represented both parties and included members of the Foreign Policy and Armed Services Committees.

Before this meeting had ended, the White House issued this crisp statement:

"At a meeting with Congressional leaders at the White House this morning, the President, together with the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State and the Joint Chiefs of Staf, reviewed with them the latest developments of the situation in Korea. The Congressional leaders were given a full review of the intensified military activities.

"In keeping with the United Nations Security Council's request for support to the Republic of Korea in repelling the North Korean invaders and restoring peace in Korea, the President announced that he had authorized the United States Air Force to conduct missions on specific military targets in Northern Korea where militarily necessary, and had ordered a naval blockade of the entire Korean coast.

"General MacArthur has been authorized to use certain supporting ground units."

Man Clubbed to Death With Bat As He Rests on Mall Grass

A 53-year-old man was battered to death with a baseball bat on the grounds of the Smithsonian Institution yesterday afternoon.

Victim of the attack was Raymond Earl Lewis, of 146 13th st. se., who was an employe at the American House, 414 9th st. nw., police said. He was pronounced dead on the scene by an Emergency Hospital doctor at 3:15 p. m.

Charged with murder is Charlie H. Brown, 55, of 419 6th st. nw., arrested nearby shortly after the slaying.

Although hundreds of persons passed, afoot and in cars, while the beating was taking place, police have no witness to the crime, they said.

Brown did not flee after the attack, but walked about 200 feet and stretched out on the grass, where police found him, they said. The baseball bat had been dropped near Lewis' body.

In a signed confession, Brown told police he had been "gunning" for Lewis since last November, when, he says, Lewis cashed a $60 pension check belonging to him.

Brown said he was in jail on a drunk charge when his brother picked up the check, which he receives as a totally disabled veteran of World War I. His brother bought six fifth of wine, then was thrown out into the street when he got drunk, and Lewis kept the check, he said. He found out about it when he got out of jail, he added.

When he happened to see Lewis stretch out on the grass between 7th and 9th sts. and Constitution ave. and Madison dr. nw., Brown hunted for a stick, he told police.

He could not find one, so he walked to the Sports Center at 8th and D sts. nw., where he purchased the bat for 40 cents, he said.

Then he returned to the Smithsonian grounds and shook Lewis, who was drunk, he said. He told Lewis, according to police:

"Now I've got you. You've messed up a lot of good fellows on 9th street but you'll never get another one."

Then, Brown said, he struck Lewis in the face.

"I killed him because he was no damned good. The people on 9th street will be glad," he declared.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said Lewis' face was smashed in.

Brown told police he had been drinking, but that he had only a half of a fifth of wine earlier yesterday. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, who ordered him held without bond.

Suit Against Hospital

Garfield Must Pay $57,000 For Birth Injury to Baby

A District Court jury yesterday decided Garfield Hospital must pay $57,000 damages for alleged negligence attending the birth of a Falls Church, Va., child.

The award, one of the highest given here in recent years, allotted $55,000 to the affected girl and $2000 to her father, George Cable Marshall of 203 W. Greenway blvd., Falls Church.

H. Mason Welch, attorney for the hospital, declared he would move for a new trial, and if denied the motion, would appeal the verdict.

The suit filed in behalf of the girl, Noel F. Marshall, charged that she suffered severe brain damage at her premature birth in the hospital, on January 23, 1947.

Only nurses were present in the delivery room during the birth, and they were unable to get a doctor despite repeated calls for assistance, it was testified during the 12-day trial.

In the baby's sudden birth, the suit charged, the infant was "projected . . . in the manner of an arc-like trajectory to a metal delivery table, receiving injuries to the head."

Subsequent examinations after the mother and child left the hospital, it was testified by Dr. Vasilios S. Lambros, brain surgeon, showed the child to be "extremely retarded;" "90 to 95 percent deficient (mentally)", and "incurable."

Dr. Lambros and a number of other medical witnesses testified the child's condition could have been brought on by head injury, either in the described birth or any subsequent blow to the head.

Troops Only for Emergency

'Strangling' of N. Korean Army By Bombing Is U. S. Strategy

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Don't look for a large American Army pouring into Korea to roll back the Communist invaders to where they came from.

Strategically, in fact, the most significant part of President Truman's momentous orders to General MacArthur yesterday was his taking the wraps off the Air Force and Navy from operating beyond the 38th parallel.

Ground combat troops are going in, yes. The Twenty-fourth Infantry Division has been committed and a battalion is flying in by air to hold bridges and other key points against the onrushing North Koreans. But this appears to be an emergency measure forced by the virtual collapse of the South Korean Army. The invaders must be stopped before they overrun the entire country.

However, it seems certain that the American strategy is not to build up a superior land force to the Red's seven division army and then drive them back across the border. We have had to put in parts of one division as a fire brigade and possibly may have to commit other combat troops to prevent a quick end of the campaign.

When the decision to expand American participation in the fight-

Senate Votes Military Aid Unanimously

Flexible Provision Could Give S. Korea $464,150,000

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A $1,222,500,000 military assistance bill, authorizing the full amount asked of Congress to arm friendly nations, yesterday streaked through the Senate by a 66 to 0 bipartisan vote.

The unanimous count reflected solid Capitol backing of the President in the Korean crisis.

Senator after Senator indorsed the President's decision to use certain ground troops and to bomb north of the 38th parallel to stop the Red invasion.

Nominally the bill carried only 16 million dollars in aid to Korea, but flexble provisions make it possible for the President to divert up to $464,150,000 to South Korean assistance.

The bill was sped to the House, where it faces a delay of at least ten days. Subject to recall on short notice if Pacific developments warrant, House members were

At Valley Forge Jamboree

Scouts Hear Truman Assail Communist 'Religion of Hate'

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Valley Forge, Pa., June 30.—President Truman told 47,000 Boy Scouts here tonight there were "movements" in the world that "have made a religion of hate" and "have tried to poison the minds of young people."

Then he identified the "movement." The same controls over the lives and minds of youth once exercised by Mussolini and Hitler, he declared, were being continued "under the hammer and sickle" of communism.

By contrast, Mr. Truman, formally opening the great Scout jamboree at this shrine of American political faith, pointed to the ideal of international brotherhood inherent in Boy Scout work. He said:

"The Scout movement is good training for this kind of international work. Scouting is based on the ideal of human brotherhood. Scouts know that the men of other lands are very like ourselves. They have the same desire to work for human advancement.

"The tragedy of our times is that there are movements in the world that deny this fundamental ideal of human brotherhood. These movements have devoted themselves to preaching distrust between the nations.

"They have made a religion of hate. They have tried to turn the peoples of the earth against one another—to create a gulf between different peoples that fellowship cannot bridge. As part of this ef-

South's Soldiers Walk Away After Enemy Armor Breaks Defense Line on Han River

Bulletin

Somewhere in Korea, July 1 (UP).—An American infantry battalion arrived by air in Korea today and went into action immediately, taking up defense positions 25 miles north of Taejon.

The remainder of the 24th division, of which the battalion is part, is following by ship.

It was reported here that the United States Navy had been ordered to attack military targets in North Korea.

New York, June 30 (AP.)—An American Broadcasting company correspondent in Tokyo reported tonight that the first American casualties in the Korean war have arrived in Japan.

The ABC newsman also reported that the first American ground troops to reach Korea have taken up positions north of Taejon.

Taejon, Korea, (Saturday), July 1 (UP).—(By telephone to Tokyo)—South Korean troops are forming a new defense line along the Kum River, 60 miles south of Suwon and 10 to 15 miles north of this temporary capital.

North Korean Communist flying columns which captured Suwon, pushed on four miles and captured the Suwon air strip.

American military advisers believe the Reds will start driving southward by tonight after consolidating their position at Suwon.

(The United Press reported American troops flown in from Japan will enter the new line with the Koreans. Brig. Gen. John H. Church will be in command. He was quoted as saying:

("We are not going any further back. We are going to the 38th parallel.")

Tokyo (Saturday), July 1 (A.P.).—A battalian of the United States Twenty-fourth Infantry Division is being flown to South Korea. The South Korean army has collapsed and virtually quit fighting against fast-rushing North Korean Communist tanks.

The South Koreans have lost Suwon and its strategic air strip. Dispatches from the far south early today indicated the Northern invaders already are nearly 40 miles south of that position.

The 290-man American field headquarters had to flee Suwon by jeep and truck.

Brig. Gen. John H. Church, commanding the headquarters, told AP Correspondent Tom Lambert in Taejon today that the first battalion would be flown to Pusan, southern port, and taken by train to defend bridges 25 to 30 miles north of Taejon.

That temporary South Korean capital is 70 miles south of Suwon, where the defense previously had been aligned.

General Church said at least one full American division would go into combat in the south and would—with South Korean help—undertake to drive the Northerners back north of the thirty-eighth parallel boundary.

(A full strength battalion numbers between 900 and 1000 men. It is impossible to say whether the present battalion is at full strength or whether it has been increased through attachments. A division may run from 15,000 to 20,000 depending upon the number of attached units. The dispatch did not say to which of the Twenty-fourth's three regiments the battalion belonged.)

Asked by Lambert what would happen if the Russians came to the Northerners' aid, Church replied: "If the Russkies come down, we'll fight the Russkies."

Lambert reported the South Koreans, hard pressed ever since the Northern Reds invaded last Sunday, had virtually quit fighting by 6 p. m. Friday (4 a. m. Friday, EDT). He described the defense as in a state of collapse after Red tanks broke through the Han River defenses, north of Suwon.

The Reds were officially reported to have gotten 40 to 50 armored vehicles across the broad Han River, crossing at several points south of Seoul, the fallen southern capital.

A column of 50 Northern trucks then moved infantry southward against almost no opposition.

Reliable sources in Taejon said the South Koreans refused to mine roads and walked away from the fight after having told the Americans they would keep battling.

These disastrous developments came as President Truman in Washington ordered use of American ground forces to bolster the then-faltering defense. Word of the Southern collapse came several hours later.

There was no word when the first American combat infantry would arrive. They were reported already en route, however.

24th U. S. Division Is Going into Korea

Pusan is a southeast Korea port—the only spot remaining in the south which has an airstrip long enough to handle big transport planes. It is 162 miles southeast of Taejon, with which it is linked by rail.

(This means the troops will require hours to get to Taejon once they reach Pusan.)

American planes, meanwhile, were stepping up the pace of their operations against the Reds.

The United States Air Force announced that during Friday it destroyed 15 North Korean tanks, smashed hard along the Han River and flew 161 sorties with everything from B-29 Superforts to F-80 jet-fighters.

It was not clear whether the 15 tanks destroyed were among the 40 to 50 that broke across the Han River during darkness Friday. General MacArthur's headquarters, confirming this break-through, would give no details.

A source in a position to know the exact particulars said, however, that the strong enemy armored column had penetrated 15 miles beyond the broad Han southwest of Seoul, and was now probably much nearer to Suwon than eight miles.

Loss of the Sumon airstrip could be a hard blow to the defense. Aside from the field at Pusan, 173 miles to the southeast, Suwon is the only one capable of handling big transports. It has been the major source of American supplies for the sorely-pressed South Korean army since the United States came to the republic's aid Wednesday (Tuesday U. S. date).

Reds Hold Kimpo Airfield

The Far East Air Force communique also disclosed that the Reds held Kimpo airfield, 16 air miles west of Seoul. South Koreans previously had reported they recaptured that field after American B-29s had bombed the Reds out of it.

It was believed first United States ground troops would include infantry with their own supporting artillery, antitank guns and service units.

American armor was expected to follow soon, for the South Korean army has none. The Reds have made their startling gains almost entirely with surprisingly large forces of Russian-made tanks.

During General MacArthur's inspection trip to Korea Thursday, American field officers told him some American infantry would be necessary to recover the ground lost by the South Korean army, which was badly shaken by the first tank thrusts of the invaders.

In view of the confirmed northern thrust across the Han, there was no way of determining the accuracy of an earlier report by the South Korean information minister, Clarence Ryee, that Southern units had entered the suburbs of Red-captured Seoul.

It would have been possible for some southerners to reach their fallen capital in a flanking or scouting movement from the south or southeast while the Reds were crossing the river southwest of the city.

North's Capital Blasted

Ryee also said "our air force" blasted air bases at the northern capital city, Pyongyang. He did not make clear whether he meant American planes or the ten F-51 fighters flown by South Koreans, but the Pyongyang radio said Friday night the city had been attacked by American bombers. The Soviet news agency Tass reported from Moscow that Pyongyang was hit by American B-29's on Thursday afternoon.

The North Korean Air Force claimed—in a report rebroadcast by the Chinese Communist radio—that it shot down three American planes and destroyed four on the ground in an undisclosed period.

The United States Far East Air Forces' communique early Saturday, detailing Friday operations, reported no American losses.

It said Twentieth Air Force B-29's bombed Red tanks, barges, troop concentrations and road intersections both east and west of Seoul along the Han River, inflicting "heavy damage."

Thirty Red trucks also were wrecked.

Two enemy planes were listed as shot down Friday as F-80's, F-82's, F-51's, B-26's and B-29's flew a total of 161 sorties.

(A sortie in air force parlance is one flight by one airplane.)

In response to reports that the Thirty-eighth Parallel, dividing line of North and South Korea, had been erased for purposes of American defense operations, General MacArthur's Chief of Staff said United States planes were operating against the North Korean air force "wherever they are. That might be in North Korea or in territory they have taken in the south."

Australia Is Sending Planes, Two Warships

Tokyo (Saturday), July 1 (U.P.)—Australia is putting a fighter plane squadron and two warships into action in the Korean war, it was announced here today.

Sir Horace Robertson, commander of British commonwealth occupation forces in Japan, announced that the Australian government has instructed him to place the royal Australian air force Seventy-seventh Fighter Squadron into action. The squadron is based at Iwakuni in southern Japan.

dissent from this statement at the meeting with the President, the White House did not disclose it. But Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.), the Republican Senate leader, emerged from the White House telling reporters that "I don't think anything supersedes the right of Congress to declare war."

"I think," he said, "that Congress should be required to share the responsibility of whatever action the President takes."

Representative Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.), a party colleague who seldom agrees with Wherry on anything, said after the meeting: "We've got a rattlesnake by the tail and the sooner we pound its damn head in, the better."

Behind the President's statement was the conviction that it was impossible to beat back the Communists under the limitations imposed last Tuesday. The hampering factor has not been the lack of American front-line troops; it has been the inability of the Air Force and Navy to choke off the supply lines feeding the invaders in south Korean territory.

The danger of intervention by Soviet forces was discounted in official quarters yesterday, at least for the present. Further study of the Soviet note of Thursday, refusing to ask the North Koreans to call off the invasion, produced some confidence here that the Russians did not want to commit themselves to an open clash with the West at this time.

In advance of a formal answer to the Soviet note, the State Department yesterday issued a detailed refutation of the Soviet charge that the U. N. action on Korea was illegal.

True, the State Department said, the Charter says nonprocedural questions must be settled by the affirmative votes of seven members, including the concurring votes of the five Great Powers. The Soviet Union has been boycotting the U. N. and therefore was not present to give its "concurring vote" on Korea.

"By a long series of precedents, however, dating back to 1946," the State Department went on, "the practice has been established whereby abstention by permanent members of the Council does not constitute a veto."

To prove its point, the State Department cited four Security Council votes on the Palestine issue, four on the Kashmir dispute and two on Indonesia in which the Soviet Union abstained but did not challenge the legality of the Council's decisions.

It cited three other votes on which one or two other great powers abstained and therefore did not give their "concurrent votes," but which the Soviet Union did not challenge.

As for the Soviet absence from the United Nations, the State Department said "the voluntary absence of a permanent member from the Security Council is clearly analagous to abstention."

The statement also disputed one other Soviet contention—namely, that Nationalist China is illegally a member of the Security Council. The State Department pointed out that the Security Council itself had defeated an attempt to unseat Nationalist China.

"No affirmative action has been taken which, by any stretch of the imagination, could give force to the contention of the USSR.," said the State Department, "that a representative of the Peiping regime should be regarded as a representative of China on the Security Council."

This unofficial reply was as moderate in its temper as the Soviet note itself. It called no names, it did not cite the often-repeated Soviet record of "obstruction," and it was intended to put the record straight as clearly and calmly as possible.

This was a good sample of the official mood yesterday, and of the effort to keep diplomatic dealings with Moscow "correct" and unprovocative. Although the Soviet propaganda mill continued to grind out shrill abuse of the United States all over the world, the hope persisted here that the Kremlin would keep the conflict localized and would call it off in the end.

House Approves Combat Air Force Of 70 Groups

The House completed congressional action yesterday on a bill authorizing a combat Air Force of 70 groups—if and when the money is provided.

A voice vote in the House sent the measure to President Truman, who has been insisting the Nation cannot afford a larger Air Force than it has now—about 48 combat groups.

The legislation, passed Thursday by the Senate, sets top limits of manpower and aircraft for the armed forces. Actual strength is determined, however, by the amount of money Congress provides.

Holland House Votes To Send Naval Forces

The Hague, Netherlands, June 30 (AP).—The Lower House of the Dutch Parliament today approved Holland's decision to throw her naval forces in with United States and other Western fleets in defense of South Korea. The vote was 59 to 6 with 3 abstentions. The 6 against were cast by the Communists.

Invaders' Radio Says 2 B-29s Shot Down

Kim Suim, Spy, Executed Before Capture of Seoul

Taejon, Korea (By telephone to Tokyo), June 30 (U.P.).—Between 90 and 100 South Korean Communists, including the beautiful "Mata Hari" Kim Suim, were executed just before Republican forces evacuated Seoul, an official source said today.

Kim Suim, by her own story, was the mistress, first, of one of Korea's top Communists, and second, an American Army colonel.

An admitted Communist, she was tried and convicted of espionage the week preceding the invasion.

Her lover, Lee Jong, whom she helped escape to North Korea in 1948, arrived in Seoul too late to help her. Reports received in Taejon said he is now mayor of Seoul.

At her trial also she told the court she had been the mistress of Col. John E. Baird, now returning to the United States at the end of a normal tour of duty. Baird denied he ever lived with Kim Suim as man and wife.

Turk Army Chief Denies Red Moves

Istanbul, Turkey, June 30 (AP).—The Turkish army's chief of staff today denied reports of Russian troop concentrations on the Turk-Russian border.

"If there was such a thing, you would not have seen me busy with maneuvers here," Gen. Nuri Yamut told newspapermen.

The Turkish army, equipped with modern American arms, held military maneuvers yesterday 42 miles west of Ankara. The exercises were observed by President Celal Bayar, members of his cabinet, United States Ambassador George Wadsworth and chiefs of the United States military mission to Turkey.

Truman Signs Bill For Enlisting Aliens

President Truman yesterday approved legislation allowing the Army to accept up to 2500 "specially qualified aliens" during the next three years.

The foreign volunteers would be carefully screened, must enlist for five years and would be eligible for citizenship at the end of their service. They must be unmarried, between 18 and 35 years old and without dependents.

Egypt Refuses Help To U. N. Korean Step

Lake Success, N. Y., June 30 (NYHT).—Egypt informed the Security Council today that it would not support the United Nations' effort to liberate the Republic of Korea from Communist invaders, but it was the only discordant note as U. N. members around the world denounced the aggression and offered moral and military backing.

Meanwhile, Sir Benegal N. Rau, Council president and Indian delegate, conferred with nonpermanent members of the Security Council in regard to a joint appeal for a face-to-face meeting of President Truman and Generalissimo Stalin—or at least a Big Four foreign ministers meeting—on relieving international tensions and maintaining peace.

It was learned that Sir Benegal had received some encouragement in his efforts and that the other nonpermanent members—Yugoslavia, Norway, Ecuador, Cuba and Egypt—had agreed to continue conversations on the appeal.

Mahmoud Bey Fawzi, Egyptian delegate, told the Council that his country could not support the decision to give military assistance to the South Koreans because the affair was only another facet of the East-West struggle and because the U. N. had failed to act in earlier cases of aggression and Charter violations.

This brought an immediate rebuke from Sir Gladwyn Jebb, making his first speech as Great Britain's new Council delegate, who said it was "fully irrelevant to blame all ills on the existence of two rival groups." He said Egypt's arguments were scant reason for withholding support in view of the "flagrant aggression."

Last Tuesday night, when the Security Council voted 7 to 1 to request military assistance for the beleaguered Korean republic, Egypt and India had refrained from voting because they had not received instructions from their governments. Egypt said today that on the basis of information since received, it would have abstained on the vote.

India's Decision Welcomed

Since it had been announced in New Delhi, it was not news to the Council that India had decided to support the resolutions for restoring peace in Korea. However, when Sir Benegal N. Rau, Council president, officially reported his country's decision, it was welcomed by Jean Chauvel, French delegate, for "bolstering the Security Council resolution, adding to the majority and increasing solidarity."

In rebuttal to Sir Gladwyn, Fawzi pointed out that Egypt voted at Sunday's emergency meeting for a resolution to reestablish peace, but said this action did not imply it would go as far as Tuesday's decision under which the U. N. ordered military operations against the North Koreans.

He accused the Security Council of never doing a thing about the "savage" aggression of world Zionism on the people of Palestine, and said Great Britain, by its actions in Palestine and Egypt, "abundantly" contributed to circumstances which caused Egypt to adopt its stand.

Sir Gladwyn replied that all he had done was to regret Egypt's position and said he would be happy to meet Fawzi in private and maybe convince him there.

Told of Truman Actions

Ambassador Warren R. Austin, American delegate, informed the Council of President Truman's decision to employ ground forces against the invading Communists, blockade the North Korean coast and to attack military objectives in the invaders' home territory, if necessary.

He said this was in keeping with the Security Council's request for aid to the Korean republic. Austin said that the nations which supported the council's decision would be "surrounded in glory for the action they took spontaneously."

During the day Secretary General Trygve Lie received messages from Argentina, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Honduras, Mexico, Parkistan, Panama, Turkey and Uruguay, announcing support for the Korean decision.

31 Countries Support U. S.-U. N. Korean Step

Lake Success June 30 (AP).—Thirty-one countries have lined up in support of American-led military measures under United Nations auspices to save South Korea, the Security Council was advised today.

The 31 countries joining the fight are the 21 American Republics which made their decision in the Council of the Organization of American States in Washington; Britain, Nationalist China, India, Belgium, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Australia, The Philippines, Turkey and Pakistan.

Others have messages of participation on the way.

Against the array were protests from Russia, Czechoslovakia and North Korea that the Council moves are illegal because Russia and Red China did not participate in making them.

They carried the pilot to safety and he was treated for cuts about the face and shock

U. S. Rejection Of Chiang's Offer Likely

The United States is expected to turn down Chiang Kai-shek's offer of 20,000 Chinese Nationalist troops to help defend southern Korea.

The reason, an informed source said yesterday, is that the reappearance of Chinese Nationalists on the mainland, even on behalf of the United Nations, would be the surest way to bring Communist China into the Korean struggle.

So Chiang probably will be thanked politely for his offer, but will be told that his 20,000 can be employed more usefully in guarding Formosa against possible Communist assault.

The danger of Chinese Communist involvement in Korea is not taken lightly here. It may have been one factor in President Truman's decision yesterday to blockade the Korean coast, for any Chinese Communist troops assigned to Korea would have to cross to the peninsula by sea or take the roundabout land route through Russian-dominated Manchuria.

Thursday's speech by Chou En-lai, the Communist Foreign Minister, may have been intended for home or foreign propaganda, but it had a warlike sound that did not escape notice in official quarters here. If the Chinese Communists should intervene with troops in Korea, then General Douglas MacArthur might decide to accept Chiang's offer of the 20,000 men. But for the present, the answer to Chiang will be a polite "no, thanks."

Meanwhile military, legal and diplomatic officials struggled here and at Lake Success with the procedure for handling the offers of military help from other countries.

Next week the Security Council will be asked, either by the United States or one of its partners, to delegate the United States as the agent of the U. N. in carrying out the military sanctions approved last Tuesday night.

It has not yet been decided whether the President here, or General MacArthur in Tokyo, should be named as the authority empowered to make use of international forces in Korea.

In any event, MacArthur would become an international commander, and the Administration here is anxious to emphasie his international role. Other nations are also anxious to show that they are acting under U. N. authority.

Prime Minister Louis S. Laurent of Canada used the phrase "a U. N. commander" in telling the House of Commons yesterday that Canada would offer naval units. He said Canadian destroyers originally assigned to North Atlantic treaty maneuvers were being reassigned to "western Pacific waters." These were St. Laurent's words:

"If we are informed that a Canadian contingent to aid U. N. operations under a U. N. commander would be important to achieve the ends of peace, which is, of course, our only purpose, then the government wishes Parliament to know it would immediately consider making such a contribution."

O'Dwyer Says To Prepare For 'Worst'

New York, June 30 (U.P.).—Mayor William O'Dwyer told city civilian defense officials today to prepare for "the worst."

O'Dwyer unexpectedly attended a civilian defense meeting attended by 24 city officials and said the time had come for officials responsible for the city's safety "to take into account the conditions in Korea and where they might end."

"We would be foolish to stand by on one leg if something happened to New York and we were not prepared for the worst."

Free Trade Union Body Calls for U. N. Backing

Brussels, June 30 (AP).—The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions today called on its 50 million members in 52 lands to support the United Nations Security Council's action against Northern Korea.

In a communique from its Brussels headquarters, the confederation registered "a vehement protest against the flagrant and unprovoked armed attack launched by Communist forces on Southern Korea." The ICFTU was organized in opposition to the Communist-led World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU).

Russians in Canada Are Trying to Enlist

Ottawa, June 30 (AP).—Democracy-minded Russians living in Canada have been trying to enlist in the Canadian army.

An army headquarters official said letters from Russian displaced persons here, some of them written in their native language, have been coming in recently.

The army has to turn down the applicants. To join the Canadian army one must be either a Canadian citizen or a British subject resident here.

Messages, by 10 to 1, Back Truman Course

Telegrams and letters applauding President Truman's stand against communism in the Far East are pouring into the White House.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the communications approving the President's course outnumber those opposed by 10 to one. He said around 1200 communications, mostly telegrams, had been received as yesterday and that the letters were still coming in.

Pace Pleads For Building Up of Army

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The United States is "not a nation at war," Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, jr., declared last night, but he added that if war comes, it will be a "full-scale ground war."

In a clear bid for building up the Army, Pace emphasized that if a "full-scale aggression should be thrust upon us" it would be fought primarily on the ground and "we must gear our defense forces to fight this type of war."

The youthful secretary said the Korean action "clearly and forcefully demonstrated our determination, through the United Nations, to support peace and security in the world."

Speaking at a banquet of the Reserve Officers Association at the Mayflower Hotel, Pace listed these as the "hard, cold facts of our current situation:"

"The Soviet Union is the only nation in the world today capable of threatening our security. It is a land power, and it has built up, and continues to build up, a tremendous ground army. And its immediate objectives would normally be neighboring land areas, bordering upon it to the south, east and west.

"As opposed to this thereat, the inherent objective of the United States is to support the United Nations in its efforts to restore and keep the peace."

If this situation turns into war, the Army "must be prepared to meet the land armies of the police states with smaller forces that are better trained, better led and better armed and equipped to overcome this numerical disadvantage," Pace emphasized.

The Reserves, therefore, "must be more immediately ready than ever before in our history to take up arms," he said. The Reserves are "full, working partners" in the armed forces and "are being depended on heavily."

The association, which winds up a week-long convention today, yesterday adopted resolutions calling for:

Appointment of assistant secretaries for reserve affairs and assistant chiefs of staff in each department; creation of reserve commands for Army and Air Force, outside the Pentagon, to handle operations and administration of the reserve programs, and creation of a reserve bureau in the Army and Air Force to make policy.

Opposition to world Federalism and withdrawal of indorsements by various State Legislatures.

Approval of a 70-group Air Force. At first this resolution criticized President Truman is not establishing the 70 groups, but an amendment killed the criticism.

Direction by Congress to the Secretary of Defense to develop a civil-defense program, using reserve officers wherever possible.

Congress to earmark appropriations for reserves' training for that purpose only to prevent various services from putting these funds to other uses.

Britain Hopes For U. S. Help On Hongkong

London, June 30 (AP).—Britain hopes that by lending America her Far Eastern fleet to defend South Korea she can count on similar help from the United States if Hongkong is attacked by the Chinese Reds, officials said today.

Fearful that the island colony off the coast of China's mainland may soon become a Communist target, government leaders and service chiefs apparently reasoned that they could now call for United States assistance with a clear conscience.

Since the Korean crisis blew up, the situation in imperiled Hongkong—which even before this was living in a state of near emergency—has become much more tense.

Britain's act of committing her fleet to back up the United Nations Security Council's resolution to restore peace in Korea undoubtedly surprised and gratified many American diplomats here. Some of them had half expected the United States would be left virtually on its own.

Unless the Korean war spreads, however, both American and British officials say British fleet operations are likely to be limited mainly to patrolling Korean waters and to fetching and carrying.

Britain hopes to keep completely out of the Formosa situation, fearful that intervention might jeopardize her attempts to set up diplomatic relations with the Chinese Communists. She has gone on record as supporting China's rights to Formosa regardless of what government is in power.

The Reds first wanted to know if Britain would support their demand for representation in the United Nations, displacing the Chinese Nationalists. Britain finally let it be known she would vote "yes" and intended raising the issue, at the meeting of the U. N. Social and Economic Council in Geneva next week. But in view of the Korean war, the British have changed their minds and have decided not to raise the matter.

Officials said, however, that there is no question of breaking off attempts to establish formal relations with the Chinese Reds.

Power to Rule Ships Asked For Truman

Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) proposed yesterday that President Truman be given power to regulate the movement of foreign ships into American ports to prevent atomic bomb attacks.

Magnuson told the Senate that, without going through the fanfare of declaring a National emergency, the President ought to be authorized to order the search and detention of foreign flag vessels. He said that power is lacking since repeal of the war powers act, and offered a bill to restore it.

"A foreign flag vessel carrying an atomic weapon, or biological or bacteriological materials of warware, presumably could enter our ports without inspection other than routine customs search," the Washington Senator said.

"There is not sufficient authority to divert the movement of a possibly unfriendly or suspect vessel."

Magnuson said the Nation has spent large amounts of money in perfecting radar protection to prevent enemy planes from attacking harbor installations but has done nothing to prevent a ship carrying explosives into a harbor.

M. P. Asks Debate On No. Korea Atom War

London, June 30 (AP).—Maj. Peter Roberts, a Conservative member of Parliament, asked the House of Commons today to debate his call for an atom war against North Korea.

The bespectacled industrialist proposed an atomic attack last Monday.

Today Roberts submitted a motion which said the House recognized that an atom attack is justified to maintain the authority of the United Nations, if other conciliatory efforts fail beginning a series of two and three day recesses over the week of the Fourth.

Senate Unanimous in Passing Military Aid Bill

In the Senate, however, leaders deliberately made the arms bill a test of National unity behind the President and for the second time in a week the Senate responded unanimously. On Wednesday it passed the draft bill, 76 to 0.

Senators most critical of the Administration's prior foreign policy moves, many of whom voted against military assistance in the past, got behind the bill.

The only ripple of idsharmony came in a speech by Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (Nebr.) calling for the resignation of Secretary of State Dean Acheson and contending the President should have come to Congress before moving in Korea.

Wherry Raps Acheson

Echoing earlier criticisms of Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), Wherry said Acheson had been "reversed" by the White House in the Far Eastern move and attacked Acheson's policies in Europe.

Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas hit at Wherry and Taft as "Monday morning quarterbacks" and "arm chair strategists" and said he was "shocked" at the attack on Acheson.

Lucas said the Red invasion "reversed" our policies in the Far East.

"Dean Acheson is not going to resign, no matter how many individuals make that request," the Senate leader said.

Despite his attack, Wherry voted for the bill, saying the President "must have our unanimous support."

Thirty-two Republicans joined with 34 Democrats in the unanimous ballot.

Designed mainly to strengthen Western Europe against Communist aggression, the second year edition of the military aid program provides one billion dollars cash and 250 million dollars in equipment for Atlantic Pact powers.

In addition, the bill provides $131,500,000 for arms aid to Greece, Turkey and Iran, and 75 million dollars for the general area of China. The President is empowered to sell or donate arms to other nations whose security is considered vital to our defense.

Cain Amendment Beaten

Senator Harry R. Cain (R., Wash.) said the 16 million dollars provided in the bill for Korea was obviously insufficient and asked the Senate to strike out the figure so it could be increased at need by the Appropriations committee.

The Cain amendment was defeated by a voice vote after Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), said authority for the President to transfer up to ten per cent of the funds between titles provided "adequate" funds for Korea.

The cost of our own "covering" operations will come out of regular military appropriations and not from the arms assistance fund, the Texan said.

Off the floor, potential maximum aid for Korea in the bill was broken down this way:

Direct authorization	$16,000,000
Ten percent transfer	$204,150,000
Military equipment	$250,000,000
Unused 1940 Korea fund	$10,000,000
Total possible Korean aid	$464,150,000

Two Amendments Added

Two watered-down amendments were added to the bill before passage.

One, by Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.) authorizes termination of armed aid to any country if the President determines it is not making its full contribution to its own area defense.

Approved earlier was an amendment by Senator Taft defining the "fair value" of equipment sold to countries that can afford to buy arms.

The arms bill became an incidental part of Senate speeches in support of our Korean stand. Senator Cain interrupted a Senate speech to read the text of yesterday's White House announcement authorizing use of ground troops in Korea.

Even Senator Taft, who helped lead the fight on the original military assistance bill last September, told the Senate he was supporting the present bill because of the Korean aid it carries. Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.), another former critic, made a similar statement.

Senator Harry Flood Byrd (D., Va.), who has differed bitterly with Mr. Truman on domestic policies, announced his unqualified support of the President "in all measures that are necessary to drive the North Koreans out of South Korea."

Time for Unity Says Byrd

"This is a time for unity, as we must win," said Byrd.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) took issue with Wherry's argument that the President exceeded his authority.

"There is no necessity for a declaration of war," said Knowland. "This is more of a police action."

Senator John C. Stennis (D., Miss.) said he would like to send a message to the men in the Kremlin that "the people of Mississippi are not going to stand by and see freedom stamped out all over the world."

Gen. Gay Commands Famed First Division

Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, who was commanding general of the Military District of Washington until last summer, commands the famed First Division in Japan, the Army said yesterday.

One of the four divisions of the Eighth Army in the Far East, it is available for use in the Korean fighting if the Twenty-fourth Infantry Division — ordered in last night—can't do the job alone.

Assistant commander of Gay's division—really an infantry division but carrying one of th most historic Army unit names—is Brig. Gen. Henry I. Dodes, a native of Washington, the Army said. Still another high ranking troop commander in the Eighth Army is Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, according to the department, who has spent much time here during his Army career. He commands the Seventh Infantry Division.

Gay, a native of Rockport, Ill., entered the Army during World War I from civilian life. He was post quartermaster at Ft. Myer in 1939, went to the Army Industrial College here the following year and then served at the Washington Quartermaster Depot until 1941.

During the war he was chief of staff of the First Armored Corps, Seventh Army and Third Army, taking part in the North African and Sicily landings and fought in France.

General Hodes, a 1920 West Point graduate. He served at the War Department during the World War II before leading the 112th Infantry regiment in France and Germany and served here from 1945 to 1949.

General Barr served with the Washington Provisional Brigade here before World War II and served in France with the Sixth Army Group. He was on duty here with the Army Ground Force from 1945 to 1948.

Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker is commanding general of the Eighth Army in Japan. A graduate of West Point in 1912, he led the Twentieth Army Corps in France in World War II.

Stalin Suffered Heart Attack on Flight, Is Report

Salem, Mass., June 30 (AP).—Col. Roland W. Estey, U. S. A. (Ret.), writing today in the Salem Evening News, said Premier Stalin suffered a heart attack, June 2, while on a plane flight bound for Chuvash.

Estey, a former OSS officer, said he received the information from sources in Europe and that it had ben turned over to our intelligence agency.

The colonel wrote the plane was en route for a conference in the town of Chita, approximately 100 miles north of the Chinese border.

"The heart attack apparently was of such a nature," Estey wrote, "it semed wise to return him to Moscow and permit his impersonator to proceed on the trip."

A former OSS officer, Estey said that during the May 31 demonstration in Moscow Stalin became fatigued and his double again took his place.

Estey said he received a letter June 21 from Europe containing this message: "Watch Formosa or Chosen (Korea) before one July."

He eplaixned Chosen is sometimes used instead of Korea.

French Assembly Backs Queuille as Premier

Paris (Saturday), July 1 (AP).—The National Assembly confirmed Henri Queuille as Premier of France early today by 363 to 208. Queuille needed 311 votes for confirmation.

The vote was delayed for hours by a bitter attack on President Truman's fighting policy to save Korea by Communist Party Secretary Jacques Duclos.

During the debate that followed Duclos' outburst, nearly everybody, but the Communists made it clear they supported the American stand.

The Korean issue, however, had no bearing on the vote to confirm Queuille, which was fought entirely on domestic issues.

Only the Communists, a small group of de Gaullists and a few Independents voted against Queuille. He drew the supports of his own Radical Socialist (conservative) party, the Socialists, nearly all Former Premier Georges Bidault's Popular Republican Movement and many independents.

Duclos, in his diatribe against the United States policy, said:

"Truman is ready to help the emperor of the night clubs in Indo-China." This was a reference to stepped-up American aid to the French-sponsored Vietnam state headed by Bao Dai, former Emperor of Annam, who came to France recently for a vacation at his Riviera villa.

Duclos spoke for "Korea for Koreans" and asked: "Are Frenchmen going to be killed for Syngman Rhee? Rhee is President of South Korea.

Sentence Suspended

Arlington Circuit Court Judge William D. Medley yesterday suspended a nine-month jail sentence in the case of Samuel Birnbaum, 6107 N. 18th st., Arlington.

Birnbaum, with three other men, was indicated last April on charges stemming from attempts to pass three forged checks, totaling $1110.

Czechs Convict 13 as Spies

Prague, June 30 (AP).—Thirteen persons were convicted today in a treason and terrorism trial in southern Moravia and one was sentenced to death. They had been accused of connections with an American intelligence service and other anti-state activities.

Frantisek Dvorak, 27, described as a policeman under Hitler's Bohemian protectorate, was condemned to die.

Radomir Pompl, 24, wartime Partisan fighter, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Marie Harzonova, 42, drew a sentence of 45 years and was fined 50,000 crowns ($1000). Ten other defendants were given prison terms ranging from 4 to 18 years. Two were acquitted.

Vatican City, June 30 (AP).—Bishop Gerald P. O'Hara of Georgia, is under close surveillance in Bucharest and may face arrest and trial, a Romanian prelate at the Vatican said today.

The American bishop, of the Savannah-Atlanta Roman Catholic Diocese, is regent of the Vatican's Bucharest nunciature, or diplomatic mission.

Kent Island Estates

Here, in a lovely tract of more than 350 acres of Maryland's famous Eastern Shore are home sites of the kind you have been longing to own. No wonder 50% of the people who see them—buy them and plan to live here. Everything you want for peaceful, healthful enjoyable living is at your door—Here are sandy beaches, deep water anchorage for your boats, some of the best fishing grounds in the Bay. Here are sensible restrictions that will protect your investment and keep Kent Island Estates worthy of the traditions of this historical section.

$350 buys your share of Maryland's Eastern Shore
..a building site approx. 50' x 200'. Pay as little as $17.50 down. Monthly payments as low as $5.00

There is a wide choice of desirable lots at Kent Island Estates, some cleared, some wooded. Plenty of water front lots with full riparian rights as low as $1000. Other lots proportionately priced. Many homes are already under construction. All of them carry the privileges of the large community beach, pier and anchorage. All of them are swept by salt breezes, for Kent Island Estates is on an island between the Chesapeake and Eastern Bays. There is salt water all around.

See the Bay Bridge being built.

As you ride over on the Ferry you'll enjoy seeing how great progress is being made on the Bay Bridge. As soon as bridge is completed Kent Island Estates will be within easy commuting distance of Baltimore, Washington and Annapolis. That is why so many wise people are buying at Kent Island Estates now.

Come picnic on the beach or in the woods. If you have a boat come on over and see for yourself how grand the fishing is. Let us show you pictures of the kind of homes you'll want to build here. When you are on the Eastern Shore this weekend remember Kent Island Estates is only a 10 minute drive south from the Eastern Shore end of the Matapeake-Sandy Point Ferry.

How to reach Kent Island Estates

ing was taken yesterday morning, and President Truman said "certain ground supporting forces will be sent. Observers expected that only relatively small ground combat forces would be needed.

Reasons Set Forth

There were good reasons for this:

1. The situation offers a perfect opportunity for winning by "Operation Strangle." Korea is a mountainous peninsula with only two railroad lines running north and south. With Air Force bombers hitting bridges, railroad and bases in the north, and the American and British fleets blockading the coasts, it is believed the supply lines to the Red troops fighting below the border can be choked off.

This, it is believed, would force a withdrawal of the North Korean army, unless Russia is prepared to throw in air power and sea power to challenge the American control of the skies and the seas and push through supplies and reinforcements. There would have to be some pressure on their front but not superior land force.

At least, the strategy appears to offer a good opportunity of winning before trying the latter.

2. It will take considerable time and effort to get any sizable American Army forces in the fighting. First we would have to set up a base—convert the port of Pusan into a military base depot to receive large numbers of troops and supplies. Then we'd have to get the sea transport to bring them there and bring in the motor transport to get them to the front.

Few Transports Available

Only a few United States troop transports are in the Far East, officials said yesterday. The Navy could be diverted from its other jobs and some commercial vessels could be pressed into service for this sealift, but this would be far from satisfactory.

Some troops and equipment can and are being airlifted into Korea, but the quantity that can be moved by air is strictly limited. There are only 36 C-54 transports in the Far East and entire Pacific, an Air Force spokesman said yesterday, and as of that time none had been ordered from the United States.

3. The third reason is the lack of any sizable reserve of transport planes, combat aircraft and divisions anywhere in the American armed forces.

There are four divisions in Japan—the First Cavalry (really on Infantry division), the Seventh Infantry and the Twenty-fifth Infantry, besides the Twenty-fourth already going into action. There is one in Germany and five in the United States. Except for the Eighty-second Airborne—ready to go though not at full war strength—the others are still building toward top battle efficiency.

If two or more of MacArthur's divisions are sent to Korea, they would have to be replaced by troops from the United States. The "mobile reserve" at home is at the bare minimum. Supposing we do send a couple of divisions to the Far East, where would we be if Russia starts another fire in some other part of the world?

The same is true of other things. Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer can devote only part of his 500-plane Far Eastern Air Force to the Korean fighting. Yesterday's 180 sorties was the largest operation yet. For he must keep some of his fighters to guard the Philippine, Okinawa, Guam and Japanese bases against a sudden attack.

Similarly Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg would be very reluctant to send any of Strategic Air Command's planes to the Far East, or to cut into the under-strength forces of Continental Air Command's home defense fighters.

There appears to be a good hope that "Operation Strangle" can do the trick in Korea if a front can be stabilized. Stratemeyer's airmen have been fighting today with their right arm tied behind their back. It is far more effective to destroy enemy air power by hitting air bases, knocking out planes on the ground, repair facilities, bomb and fuel dumps, etc., than to try to shoot down planes in the air. Also, ground armies can be hit much harder by bombing their depots, and the bridges and railroads they depend on for supplies than to go after a single tank or column of troops on a road. This is particularly so in the weather now prevailing in Korea; the bases and bridges stay put, the troops and armor do not.

Hope in Operation

The strategy looks good for a situation such as existed in Korea earlier in the week. Had it been put into effect then, things would be different today. If the GIs of the 24th Division can stop the Reds in time and stabilize a front, maybe it'll still work.

Heckling Pike

The Joint Atomic Energy Committee reflected no credit on itself by its querulous vote Thursday against confirmation of Sumner Pike for another term on the Atomic Energy Commission. Even a defendant in court is given a bill of particulars. But in the committee there was never any real reason expressed for the opposition to Mr. Pike except that he is sometimes discursive. The 5-4 vote, which had a solid Republican core except for the shift of Democratic Senator Johnson, seemed to have nothing more substantial behind it than the vague charge that Mr. Pike, though a Republican, was regarded as a "New Dealer." This is petty politicking at its worst; it overlooks entirely Mr. Pike's 3½ years of experience as a stabilizing influence on the AEC as well as the damaging effect such a vote of no-confidence in the acting chairman will have on the commission. Surely the full Senate, at this tense moment in world affairs, cannot allow so flimsy and divisive an action to stand. But Mr. Pike's term expired yesterday, and the Senate will have to act fast before he decides to pack his bags and leave because of the slight already done him.

Indian Support

The decision of New Delhi to support Security Council action in Korea will be warmly welcomed. The delay over casting the Indian vote was due less to hesitation than to government procedure. There had never been any question about Premier Nehru's position toward the great conflict that is tormenting the world. He explained it in his noble speech before Congress. He said:

> Where freedom is menaced, or justice threatened, or where aggression takes place, we cannot be and shall not be neutral.

The Indian government has lived up to this unequivocal pledge in its action over Korea.

The pledge, after all, is the pledge that was undertaken when India joined the United Nations. Nevertheless, the Indian position in the world has been subject to some misunderstanding on the part of the unthinking and the ideologists, who have tagged India as neutral. This is due, perhaps, to the nuances in which Pandit Nehru habitually explains himself. But the accomplished statesman of India could never be accused of insincerity. What he wants to demonstrate is that his country is independent in its foreign policy, and there is a wide gulf fixed between independence and neutrality.

It is in the highest degree important to the United States that India shall remain independent and should demonstrate its independence. For one thing, India's independence is something new, and the constant affirmation of independence is helpful to the self-pride of the Indian people. For another, India is the champion of Asiatic nationalism, and true nationalism is what the American people are interested in encouraging in Asia, for it is the deadly enemy of communism. The Indian action will show the Asiatic world that nationalism can comport with interdependence in resisting the evil of aggression. It will have a salutary effect upon Asia and, moreover, will reinforce the standing of the United Nations as the voice of mankind, not of merely the Western world.

Stop Hoarding

The boom in the durable goods industries and in construction has been putting increasing pressure on supplies of steel as well as other raw materials. There was good reason to believe prior to the Korean involvement, however, that activity in these key industries would taper off during the latter half of this year and that shortages of steel and other raw materials would be only temporary. What is happening in Korea is introducing new elements of uncertainty into the business outlook. Even if the conflict is localized, the United States will be compelled to increase its military outlays to check Communist aggression in the Far East. Moreover, it is more than likely that this country will be impelled by the menace of another world war to step up outlays for its own defense and that of its European allies. The result will be to increase demands for steel and other strategic materials in the midst of a business boom supported by a high level of consumer income. The outcome may well be intensified competition between civilian buyers and Government procurement agencies for scarce products, leading to inflated prices, and, worst of all, obstruction of defense preparations.

For the time being military procurement may not put much extra strain on the economy, but if military expenditures should be substantially increased, it might become necessary to apply Government controls to industries producing goods such as automobiles and houses that use large quantities of steel. The fear of such an eventuality accounts in part for the stock market break that followed the invasion of South Korea. Of course, if the United States were to become involved in war with Russia, a return to wartime controls of industry would be inevitable. Short of war, it might be possible to rely on the heads of supplying industries voluntarily to give defense needs priority over civilian demands, if military outlays had to be greatly expanded. Voluntary cooperation of this kind would be much more likely to succeed if the public also cooperated with the Government by buying as usual instead of indulging in scare buying of articles that people fear may eventually become unobtainable or higher-priced as a result of the war threat. The surest way to fasten rigid controls on the economy would be to yield to the temptation to hoard goods in disregard of the effect on national security.

Chinese Entanglement

By far the most fateful decision facing the authorities in throwing the aggressor out of Southern Korea is the one over China. Both Peking and Taipeh are put out over the announcement holding the future status of Formosa in abeyance. But Chiang Kai-shek's riposte is relatively dulcet: all would be forgiven if the United Nations accepted the aid of two or three divisions of Nationalist troops in Korea. The proffer is formally justified by Chinese membership of the United Nations under whose auspices the present police action is being conducted. But, if it were for a moment entertained by the United States (which is acting as the military agent of the United Nations) the consequences might well be disastrous. It would most certainly lead to a Chinese Communist invasion of Korea in support of the North Koreans. Thus a sort of reverse Spanish situation would be created. In Spain a civil war grew into an international action, but, if the Chinese entered Korea, an international action would become an extension of the Chinese civil war, and the ramifications might be so endless as to threaten a sort of Thirty Years War.

The possibilities of Chinese intrusion, as it is, are very much present. Expert reading of the Russian note appears to be that the Russians will stay physically out of the Korean conflict. However, one may be very certain that they are now working overtime to drive one or more of their satellites into the situation. The danger spots in Europe are Yugoslavia and Greece, both of whom could be attacked by neighboring satellites of Russia. In Asia the angry explosion of the Chinese Communist leaders may yet produce Chinese Communist intervention in Korea. In that event there may be no help for it but to invite Chinese Nationalist intervention. But it would be the height of folly, in view of what would surely happen, either to anticipate such intervention or to ignore that possibility by accepting the proffer from Taipeh. The Truman declaration was aimed at keeping Formosa out of war and at disentangling Chiang Kai-shek from the United States, and this should be scrupulously adhered to.

It is a pity that this object of American policy is not appreciated in Peking. Granted that the ruling heads of the Chinese Communists are either naive or doctrinaire Marxists, yet the official in charge of foreign affairs, Chou En-lai is a man of experience, and should know better. America's Far Eastern policy has undergone a sea change which spells what is conceivably a final disentanglement in the residual alliance left with Chiang Kai-shek. The disentanglement would be made complete, no doubt, by restraint in Peking.

U. N. And The Law

Moscow has invoked two arguments against the legality of the Security Council order for military action against the aggressors in Korea. One is that Communist China has not been admitted to the Council. The other is that Russia, as one of the permanent members of the Council, did not vote for the antiaggression measures. Neither contention seems to us to carry any substantial weight. What Russia is really contending for is the right to put the U. N. out of action in a time of crisis by mere aloofness from its proceedings.

The fact that the Peking government is not represented in the Council is primarily the fault of the Soviet Union itself. Having boycotted the Council, Russia has discouraged any vote on unseating the Chinese Nationalist delegate—an essential preliminary to the seating of any new representatives from China. If the Russian delegate had stayed in the Council, he might have succeeded by this time in persuading a majority of seven to vote the Chiang Kai-shek man out and the aspiring Communist delegate in. Failure to take this course now seems to have been an incredible Russian blunder. Apparently Moscow thought that by keeping the controversy over China's seat on the Council alive it could immobilize the U. N. Instead, this trick cleared the way for the most decisive action that the U. N. or any other international peace organization has ever taken to counteract aggression.

The strongest argument the Russians advance is that Article 27 requires the Council to make important policy decisions "by an affirmative vote of seven members including the concurring votes of the permanent members." Does this mean all the permanent members or all those represented when the vote is taken? In practice the Council has recognized the right of a member to abstain from voting, and Russia has many times recognized the power of the Council to act when she has abstained from voting, as the State Department pointed out yesterday. The founders clearly looked upon the Council as a going concern. They provided that each member should be represented "at all times" at U. N. headquarters. They required a pledge of each member to "fulfill in good faith" the obligations assumed under the Charter. They allowed the Council to decide procedural matters by a majority of seven votes. In the light of these requirements it would be absurd to conclude that one member could cripple the Council in all matters by remaining away from its meetings.

Reasonable interpretation of the Charter allows Russia the right to abstain from voting or even to withdraw from the organization. But there is nothing that says she can destroy the U. N. by withholding her vote. The men who met at San Francisco did not devise an imposing spectacle of impotence. They expected the machinery they set up to be used for precisely the purpose for which it has now been set in motion. Even if the technical language of different articles seems to be ambiguous, the conflict must be resolved in a manner that will carry out the spirit behind the Charter. It is well to remember also that if the Council had done nothing the United States and other powers could lawfully join forces to repel an act of aggression under the self-defense Article 51.

If there is any sincerity behind the Soviet's protest on legal grounds, she can return to the Council and argue the case in open and fair debate. Or she can seek an appeal to the International Court of Justice for a declaratory judgment as to the meaning of the Charter. Neither course is likely to be taken, for Moscow is interested only in using the U. N. to frustrate action. That she has failed in this effort is a fact of the utmost significance for our time.

Troops For Korea

President Truman's decision to send American troops to Korea and to authorize the Air Force to fly specific missions whenever necessary to halt the invasion was as wise as it was inevitable. It is obvious from news dispatches that something more than air and naval support will be necessary to bolster the defenders of South Korea, particularly against the Russian-supplied tanks which the Communist forces have been using with considerable success. What is needed probably is not large numbers of men, but trained troops with modern equipment and communications. Such ground forces as now are necessary can readily be drawn from the four American divisions alerted in Japan. The legality of this action is clear in the United Nations mandate for members to "furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and restore international peace and security in the area."

The decision to authorize the Air Force to fly specific missions wherever necessary in halting the invasion means that the Air Force can bomb the bases north of the thirty-eighth parallel from which the Communists are feeding their assaults—something the Air Force had undertaken on a limited scale even before the President's announcement. Such action is of course fundamental to the achievement of air superiority. Certainly the air defense would have been crippled if operations had been restricted to South Korea; indeed, the purpose of the U. N. sanctions would have been defeated.

Apparently this commitment of ground forces represents a change in the original American strategic plan to supply only limited aid. But it is a change in the right direction, in line with realities. There can be no half-way support. Despite the arguments that Korea would be a strategic liability in a major war with Russia, America's prestige and influence have been committed in recognition of the moral obligation and the U. N. resolution. The hope of keeping this war localized lies in winning it, and in winning it quickly; nothing could be worse, from the standpoint of American "face" in the Orient and posture in the world, than to allow the defense of Korea to fail through insufficient effort.

What is most important, of course, is to keep clear at all times that this is a United Nations action, not to conquer territory but to restore the peace, and that General MacArthur is acting for the U. N. As more nations—Britain, Australia and New Zealand—join in sending military aid, the forces are becoming genuinely international. Every opportunity ought to be taken to stress that the United States is acting as agent of the United Nations. In other words, the United States is furnishing the bulk of the forces because it is best able to do so, but it is doing it in behalf of, and at the behest of, the free world.

Day Care Program

Thanks in large measure to Senator Margaret Chase Smith, the District child day care program has been extended for three years. This not only gives Congress a reasonable respite from the hitherto perennial issue but also gives the day care program a reasonable chance to prove its worth as a permanent District institution. We hope it will receive sufficient funds to enable it to render its important community service.

The day care program has reached its present status against heavy odds. Begun during the war as an emergency measure for the children of working mothers, it encountered objections at the war's end from the District Commissioners as well as from some members of Congress. Most of these objections seem now to have been overcome. The program has enabled mothers who must work in order to support their children to leave those children in trained and careful hands during the working day. The only alternatives would be for the mothers to quit their jobs—and perhaps be obliged to go on relief—or to leave their children uncared for. We think the day care centers fill an indispensable function.

Taft's Scapegoat

Our omniscient Senator Taft pontificates a new political principle: Heads off if history reverses you!

The necromancy of McCarthyism has bewitched a noble mind. Yet his thesis is a logical twin of guilt by association. Those who believe the end justifies the means never lack reason to execute a scapegoat. Perhaps the noble Senator believes Secretary Acheson's blood will propitiate his own past heresies. No one needs a clean slate in this respect more than the distinguished apostate from Ohio.

Perhaps Acheson's scapegoat blood can purge Senator's Taft's pre-Pearl Harbor record: Against lend-lease, against repeal of the arms embargo, against adoption of the Selective Service Act and extension of the period of training.

Suppose voters began to blame World War II on Senator Taft's pathetic foresight? Surely an ounce of prevention at that time would have been worth billions of treasure and oceans of blood. Did the distinguished Senator weaken national prestige with his isolationism and opposition to sensible preparedness?

China's Vote

Many persons, some of them in positions of high influence, have for months been promoting the idea of seating the Chinese Reds in the United Nations, giving them the permanent seat of the Chinese government on the Security Council.

Had their efforts been successful, the outcome of the recent action by the United Nations on the United States resolution for the protection of the Republic of Korea from the brutal Red attack would have been very different. As it was, the vote in the Security Council was seven to one in support of aid to Korea.

It may be noted that Yugoslavia cast the one dissenting vote. Yugoslavia, however, is not a permanent member of the Council. Its action, therefore, did not affect the result, since there were just the required number of votes in favor; and since these favorable votes included those of all of the permanent members participating. It should also be noted that China cast the decisive vote, which gave support to Korea. Finally it should be noted that it was Nationalist China, not the Kremlin stooge, that occupied the Chinese seat on Council.

There has been loud wailing in certain quarters over the walkouts from United Nations meetings staged by Russia. The public has been warned that unless Russia could be appeased into returning, this would mean the end of the United Nations. Yet had Russia been present to vote in the Security Council on the Korean question there can be little doubt that she would have used her veto to block any aid to South Korea, staggering under the unprovoked attack by Russia's puppets from the north. Who can say that the failure of the United Nations under such circumstances to ask its members to go to the assistance of the government set up under United Nations auspices would not have been a fatal blow to the future usefulness of the organization?

It was exactly because the Russians had boycotted the United Nations meetings in an attempt to bully the other members into yielding to their unprincipled demands; it was exactly because Nationalist China and not the Red aggressors was sitting in the Security Council, that the United Nations was able to function promptly and efficiently in the present crisis.

Asia Policy

May I express my hearty approval and gratitude for the decision made by the President. People who are not willing to surrender their freedom and way of life to the dictatorship of terrorism look so desperately to the leadership of the United States. The negative attitude of past United States Far Eastern policy has discouraged those who seek peaceful progress.

More than this, a declaration of United States policy in Asia should follow immediately. It should include statements that: (1) the United States will give aid to those who rise against dictatorship; (2) the United States will respect and help colonial people to acquire political independence if they wish; (3) the United States will give economic assistance to develop natural resources; (4) the United States will not interfere with the Asiatic people's traditional way of life. By this a world leadership will be regained among the Asiatics who already had lost half heart toward this great Nation.

Minnesota Problem

The Northwoods area that was once a great coniferous forest has been largely supplanted by brush since logging days because this area is now in a hardwood climatic zone.

Because of the reduction of high grade iron ore in this north area, people are becoming more concerned about their economic future. They are beginning to visualize a reforestation of this former coniferous area. Using Minnesota as an example, the northern half of of this State had 21 million acres of forest of which one-third was logged and two-thirds burned. This burning also destroyed the topsoil.

One plan that may be feasible would be to clear the land of all vegetation with bulldozers, deep plow it and then plant cover crops for a number of years to enrich the soil. New trees suitable for this zone may be found in other parts of the world.

Reforestation is a national problem and one that can best be solved by extending the national forests to incorporate most of this area. Tree farming, as has been practiced in Europe for centuries is not an experiment, but is about as profitable as other forms of agriculture, providing a permanent means of livelihood for a large segment of its people.

Near East Arms Pact

Now that the Arab states have formally accepted the three-power declaration of May 25 and have pledged themselves to maintain peace in the Near East, it is worth examining some of the factors and implications involved in that declaration.

This agreement between the United States, Britain and France has been described as of "great significance," as containing "historic implications," as a land-mark" in the security of Israel and the Near East, etc. The Washington Post stated editorially the next day that "the three power promise has a potential importance that cannot be exaggerated." The key to this description is the word "promise," for not until the agreement is properly interpreted and executed does it remain more than a promise.

From here on it becomes strictly a problem of interpretation and implementation.

The tripartite agreement contains several factors which make it potentially important and which should be emphasized at this time. These are:

1. For the first time in modern history the Big Three have agreed to undertake concerted and coordinated action in the Near East, which has hitherto been one of the most troublesome and sensitive areas in the world. If this policy is successfully pursued, it will mean the end of the policy of unilateral action formerly practiced by each of three powers.

2. The three powers have united on a policy whose specific task it is to curb aggression in the Near East. They promise to take immediate action whenever the peace of the area is threatened, in this way hoping to forestall a renewal of hostilities. The pledge is somewhat vaguely worded, there is no clear guarantee what means the powers would employ to stop aggression or how soon "immediate" action would occur if, for example, an Arab state were discovered preparing an attack on Israel. Nevertheless, in view of the report that assurances have been given to the three powers by all the Arab states and by Israel that they have no aggressive designs against their neighbors, the significance of the promise and the policy upon which it is based remains great.

3. No less important is the fact that Israel is placed on an equal footing with the Arab states in the matter of arms supplies, since the three powers undertake to establish a rough balance between the military strength of the Arab states and Israel. The problem of arms supplies is unquestionably the most vulnerable point of the tripartite agreement. It may be asked: Who will control the flow of arms from Britain to Egypt and Jordan? By what means will such control be exercised? Who will determine the military balance between Israel and the Arab countries when, in reality, the exact amount of arms shipments to the Near East countries has never been disclosed? How "rough" must this arms balance between Israel and the Arab states be?

Just how Israel will obtain her arms supplies and from whom is still an uncertainty. Thus far the State Department has failed to indicate the extent of arms Israel can expect from the United States or when such shipments may take place.

Despite these weaknesses and implications which lend themselves to various interpretations, the three-power agreement is a valuable document. If nothing else, it will serve as an instrument whereby the United States will be enabled to call Britain to account should the latter decide at some future time to renege or whittle down the agreement, as Britain has done so often in the past where it concerned Palestine.

From a more immediate and practical standpoint, however, the agreement should take some wind out of the Arab opposition to peace negotiations or perhaps bring about a noticeable dent in Arab stubbornness. At any rate, once the Arab states become convinced of the seriousness of the purpose behind this agreement, the cause of peace in the Near East will have been advanced considerably.

Transit Fares

It seems to me that the Public Utilities Commission, in allowing the Capital Transit Co. such a raise in carfares, has shown that it is not concerned about the welfare of the poorer people of the District. If it will tolerate such a gouge as three tokens for 40 cents, it is just time to get rid of such a commission, and replace it with one which will serve the people. Two dollars for a weekly pass! Another outrageous gouge!

Capital Transit feels that it must get 6 percent or over on its investment. Other companies don't get it or give it. Building associations and loan associations give half or less than half on the money people invest in those companies.

Rising Issue, Right To Jobs

By Malvina Lindsay

Husband-Wife Teams

THE OLD, much-argued question: Should married women work (that is, outside the home)?, is now showing up in the guise: Which wives should work?

As yet, it's being asked chiefly in relation to employment of highly paid husband-wife teams in Government—where the pinch of economy firings is being felt. But a Government stand on this would likely influence attitudes of private employers if jobs got scarcer.

The question may even get into the United Nations this month. For the International Covenant of Human Rights—a follow-up on the Declaration—which binds each state that signs it to insure the rights listed to every citizen "without distinction of any kind, such as race, color, sex, language, religion, etc.," will be up for approval before the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Dutch business and professional women are citing the Declaration in their efforts for withdrawal of an edict barring married women from government employment. They have succeeded in getting its enforcement postponed and it is now being reviewed by a special parliamentary committee.

MEANWHILE, in this country another aspect of the matter has been raised in a House bill providing that where husband and wife both work in Government and their salaries total $7500 or more annually, or either of them earns more than $5000, one must be dismissed before another career employe can be fired.

This bill, introduced by Representative Williams of Mississippi, gets around any charge of discrimination against women by providing that either husband or wife may be dismissed. But its opponents say it is a discrimination against marriage, against free enterprise, against individual endeavor.

Those women's groups that have long fought discrimination against employment of married women also see in it an opening wedge against any wife's right to work. They maintain that such a measure would eliminate working wives rather than their husbands from certain Government employment. For men generally draw the bigger paychecks, and anyway most wives, as a matter of pride, would let their husbands keep the jobs.

This would mark a dangerous inroad on the employment rights of married couples, even of individuals generally, these groups maintain. And in an industrial civilization wives will increasingly have to work outside the home if they are to be economic helpmates to their husbands.

THE QUESTION of husbands and wives working, especially in the same place, has been dormant since the 1930s because of the war and postwar need of workers. Now it has begun to flare on several fronts. Some legislators have it on their minds—as Miss Frieda S. Miller, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor, finds whenever she appears before a Congressional committee.

As Miss Miller points out, the answer is not simple. The economic motive is behind most wives' job-holding and it varies in different groups. Among employed married women living with their husbands there are six times as many working in the lowest income groups as there are when the husband's income is $3000 or more.

There's still the argument that the highly paid employed married couple may crowd a needy single person or a family head out of a job. But those opposing any limitation of employment on a salary basis point out that assessing the needs and responsibilities of job holders is risky business.

Dependents are not always in a showcase, and an increasing number of elderly parents will be receiving help from husband-wife teams in the years ahead. Also higher education for children often requires extra economic effort from parents.

To these groups any proposed limitation on the right to jobs brings specters of the famous Section 213 of the Hoover Economy Act of 1932—legislation that they battled against until 1937 when it was repealed. This prohibited husbands and wives from holding Government jobs and occasioned many firings.

The husband-wife working team is no innovation. It has always prevailed on the farm. It is going to continue more widely in factory, store, office, all phases of industrial life. Efforts to put any limitation on it are going to prove difficult, even though some apparent injustices in distribution of income have developed with it.

Korea Scapegoats

By Marquis Childs

Policy For The Future

IF YOU had been one of that exclusive company of Stalin, Molotov, et al., sitting in the inner fastness of the Kremlin with its circle upon circle of guards, you would during the past six months have been reading reports on conditions in America. You would want to know the intentions, the capacity, the temper of the greatest power in the West.

Childs

You would not need the reports of your secret agents to learn that there were serious divisions and weaknesses in America. A member of the United States Senate publicly charged that the Department of State was infiltrated at the highest level with Communists. And this charge touched off a violent political quarrel that absorbed much of the energy and attention of both executive and legislative branches of the Government.

In the Kremlin this obviously meant that America was divided and weak. It could be put alongside reports that within the powerful Republican Party a move was growing for "peace" and an end of foreign adventures.

So if you were one of that little group of planners, you might calculate that it was safe to make a beginning; particularly since all the reports confirmed what you wanted to believe, your preconceived ideas about American democracy and its conflicts and contradictions. So you would risk the Korean attack, expecting a quick and easy conquest. And you would be tremendously surprised when the United States reacted as it has reacted with positive military steps taken not alone in Korea but at three other key points in Asia.

PERHAPS the time has come to look at our own reaction here at home. Except for the Communists and a few others on the extreme right, most people seem to have felt an enormous relief. You could almost hear a collective sigh go up that action had been ordered and division and doubt at least for the time being ended.

There were those who accepted the fact but reluctantly and with the need to find a scapegoat. Conspicuous in this class was Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. And Taft found as his scapegoat—it hardly surprised anybody—Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

This has a tender little irony all its own. For at one point in the McCarthy barrage, and it may well have been the crucial point of acceptance or rejection of the assault, Taft gave his blessing to the technique of aiming at another victim if you miss the first one.

It seems to me that the State Department can be criticized for failing to evolve and carry out a positive and constructive program for the Far East. But to put all the blame on Acheson is like blaming a runner for failing to win a race when everyone has been busy putting obstacles in his way.

A POSITIVE, constructive program in peacetime calls for a maximum of public acceptance. It calls for confidence in the motives and the objectives of those who are carrying it out.

The atmosphere of the past five months has been just the opposite. Everything has been done to break down confidence. The attacks have produced timidity, uncertainty, delay. Decisions, and Korea is an excellent example, have been blurred over and conflicting views have gone unresolved.

Now, thanks to the aggressive action of the Communists in Korea, there is an immediate and tangible task to be carried out with American weapons and American courage and skill. The headlines show that that assignment is considerably more difficult than was realized in the first burst of relief that action and more action and more action could be substituted for uncertainty and division.

But it may not be too early to try to take a little longer look into the future. American action can end the conflict. No one doubts that the Communist invaders can and must be driven out.

When that has been done, however, the position of the South Korean republic will be far more desperate than it was before. It has all along been a pretty weak instrument. Towns will be smashed, lines of communications and roads destroyed and thousands of refugees made homeless.

To help restore a stable order will take more skill, patience and unity than we have yet shown in our dealings with the peoples of Asia. Without the provocation of open Communist aggression, the whole picture in Asia might have further deteriorated while we bickered among ourselves. We cannot always count on action, action, action to avert the larger and longer responsibility of world order and peace.

fort they have tried to poison the minds of young people."

As Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America, Mr. Truman reminded the young people sitting before him in the dark of the rich history surrounding the place where they are encamped.

'Tools of Power Politics'

"Back in the days of Hitler and Mussolini," he said, "the young people of Germany and Italy were regimented in organizations dedicated to the ideas of racial hatred and war. They were shut off from the influence of their families and their churches, and sacrificed to the ambition of the tyrants who led them.

"Today the young people of Communist-led countries are being mobilized and marched, in the same fashion, under the hammer and sickle. These boys and girls are being given a completely distorted picture of the world and prevented from learning the truth about other countries.

"They are being taught to place the state above the obligations of family life. They are being brought up to despise religion and to believe that God does not exist. They are being made into tools of power politics, and their masters will not hesitate to sacrifice their lives if that will advance the cause of Communist imperialism."

To meet such a situation, Mr. Truman said, "there is only one way."

Assails 'Cynical' Leaders

"We must not return hate for the hate which these young people are being taught to feel toward us. We must realize that they are the victims of a cynical group of leaders. We must make it clear to them that we believe in fellowship of human beings, in the possibility of cooperative human action, and in peace based on mutual understanding.

"We must show them, over and over again, that fellowship is possible between men of different nations, different colors, and different creeds.

"We must continue to hold out to them the invitation to work with us for the common good."

The President made it clear, not only for his young audience here but for all young people everywhere, that "we are deeply and sincerely interested in the well-being of the youth of the world—not only American youth, but young people of all countries.

He put all people, of all philosophies, on notice that this Nation's aim was "a world in which young people are not regimented and exploited, but instead are given the opportunity to develop their capacities and contribute to a better future."

After his speech to the Scouts Mr. Truman left Valley Forge at 9:45 p. m., arriving in Philadelphia at 11:15 p. m. There he boarded his yacht, Williamsburg, at the Navy Yard to continue the trip to Washington by water. He was expected to arrive at the Naval Gun Factory there Sunday at 5 p. m.

Film Writer Ornitz Sentenced To Year in Jail for Contempt

Judge David A. Pine sentenced Hollywood writer Samuel Ornitz, 59, to serve one year in jail and pay a fine of $1000 for contempt of Congress. Ornitz was convicted Thursday of refusing to tell the House Un-American Activities Committee in 1947 whether he was a Communist.

His sentence was postponed until yesterday pending a medical examination. It was testified that Ornitz was suffering from a non-malignant growth in his neck.

Judge Pine refused to stay execution of the sentence or to grant bond pending appeal, and Oritz was sent to jail to join the six other writers, jailed and fined in District court Thursday. Of the original "Hollywood Ten", only Writer Adrian Scott is not in jail. He is ill in Hollywood and will be brought to Washington for sentencing later this summer.

Ornitz told Judge Pine he had refused to answer the committee because of the "sincere dictates of his conscience."

Quirino Promises Land to the Huks To Call Off Revolt

Manila, June 30 (AP).—President Elpidio Quirino has issued a surrender call tto the Communist-led Hukbalahaps, promising land to those who are landless.

Pamphlets containing this offer over the President's signature are being distributed by government troops. The Huks are urged to "act quickly." Those without criminal complaints against them are promised aid in returning to their homes at once. Others are told they must face trial but will get "liberal interpretation of the law."

The Hukbalahap guerills, who have plagued the Philippines for the last four years, base much of their appeal on demands for land for the landless peasantry.

Repeated amnesty offers by the government have failed in the past.

The preponderance of medical opinion, the doctors said in court, is that most such brain damage is due to a developmental defect occurring early in fetal life and often not detected till weeks or months after birth.

Defense witnesses, to counter the charge of negligence, testified that the hospital's one resident doctor and one intern on duty at the time were attending the birth of triplets to a charity patient.

Expressing "great surprise" at the verdict, Welch said the jury was called on to decide a point "on which even the doctors for the plaintiff wouldn't give a definite opinion."

"If in cases of this kind the hospitals are to be held liable on the theory that they hold out expert physician services, I don't know what the hospitals will do," he said.

Civil Rule for Guam Is Delayed by Truman

President Truman yesterday ordered a one-month delay in the transfer of the island of Guam from naval to civilian administration.

Administration of the island was due to be transferred from the Navy Department to the Interior Department on July 1.

In an executive order, Mr. Truman changed the transfer date to August 1.

For that reason, it appears improbable that any Marines will be among initial ground forces sent to Korea.

Nixon May Ask New Probe of Amerasia Case

Rep. Nixon (R., Calif.) said yesterday he may propose that the House Un-American Activities Committee investigate what he called the Amerasia case "scandal."

It will all depend, Nixon declared, on what kind of a report a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee, headed by Senator Tydings (D., Md.), turns out on its inquiry into the 1945 Amerasia episode. The Senate group's report is now being prepared.

"If that study corroborates the charge that certain key witnesses have not been questioned and that evidence has been suppressed, I for one intend to ask the Committee on Un-American Activities to conduct its own investigation of those phases of the case which have not been covered by the Tydings committee," Nixon told reporters.

The Californian is the senior Republican member of the House committee.

Overriding Republican protests, the Democratic majority of the Tydings Senate Committee decided two days ago to prepare a preliminary report on its investigation of the hotly disputed Amerasia case. GOP members of the committee objected on the ground the inquiry had not been thorough enough.

"I feel," said Nixon, "that there should be a complete and impartial investigation of all the charges which have been made in the Amerasia case. I think this is particularly true in the light of what has happened in the Far East in recent weeks.

"We certainly want to make sure that none of the people who were in any way involved in the Amerasia scandal are left in positions of trust and confidence."

Bill Would Penalize Author Congressmen

Representative O'Sullivan (D., Nebr.) wants a law to fine and jail members of Congress who accept money for making speeches or writing articles.

O'Sullivan put his idea into a bill which he introduced in the House Thursday. He wants a penalty of $10,000 and ten years in prison. He said that his bill "followed disclosures that Senator Joseph McCarthy (R., Wis.) has been paid $10,000 for writing an article for the Lustron Corporation."

Court Extends Assets Ban Against RFC

Chicago, June 30 (AP).—A court ban against the RFC taking over assets of Lustron Corporation was extended indefinitely today.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan took the action. He first invoked the ban June 8. He also denied an RFC request to defer election of trustees for the bankrupt firm.

Indiana GOP Hits Truman On Korea

Indianapolis, June 30 (AP).—Indiana Republicans today blamed the Korean situation on "the policies of indecision, vacillation and appeasement of the Truman and Roosevelt Administrations."

Party delegates at their State convention adopted a platform and nominated candidates for the November campaign. United States Senator Homer E. Capehart was renominated without opposition to head the ticket.

United States Senator William E. Jenner and Representative Charles A. Halleck told the delegates America would stand united in a time of crisis.

Jenner said in his keynote address that President Truman's action in sending military aid to South Korea was "the most complete repudiation of a Secretary of State in our history."

"Secretary of State Acheson ought to have enough moral decency left to resign; and, if not, he ought to be forced out of office," Jenner said.

The party platform opposed the Brannan farm plan and compulsory health insurance. It called for "whatever amendments or corrections are necessary in the Taft-Hartley law to protect the fundamental rights of labor."

Act. The House District Committee also is expected to begin hearings on a bill by Representative Edward T. Miller (R., Neb.), a physician, to alter the Copeland Act.

Wiley Demands Change

Only Thursday, Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) warned the Commissioners they will change their regulations and permit importation of so-called foreign milk or "Congress will do it for you."

The hearing brought out that 300 dairy farmers, who are not now selling milk in the District, asked for health inspectors so they could enter this market, but only 75 were inspected and cleared in the last two weeks. About 20,000 gallons of milk come into Washington every day from Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota, the Senate Committee was told. The 75 farms recently inspected would replace about 9000 gallons of that importation.

Senator George D. Aiken (R., Vt.) inquired if some dealers hadn't bought Class II milk in those States and sold it here as Class I. The dairy business, Aiken said, "is a cut-throat business."

Health Officer, Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger said that, although his office tries to inspect the farms four times a year, they only got around three times last year, owing to illness of inspectors. In fact, he admitted, some farms weren't inspected that often.

why he objected to the other provisions in the bill. He said in part:

"If, as the measure intends, the political privileges of the Federal employes are now to be extended to the field of local partisan politics, there is no valid reason to confine the extension to geographic locations or to areas where the number of Government employes is predominant. If Federal employes are to be allowed to participate completely and actively in the selection of local officials, a move which I indorse, their participation should be permitted on a Nation-wide basis."

The President then explained that the provision, in effect, was a subterfuge; that it wouldn't do what was intended. He said:

"Where a party plan is in force, a Federal worker could not seek local office on a partisan ticket without supporting all other party candidates, whether for local, State or national office. If he did support them actively, he would automatically be in violation of the Hatch Act. If he failed to give them active support, he could be penalized by removal from the ballot.

Blow to Byrd

"Thus, it would appear that in such a case the Federal worker gets nothing more than the rights which he already has. To protect the Federal worker in such circumstances against undue pressures to indulge in partisan activities, the Civil Service Commission should be authorized to deny the right to participate in local partisan politics wherever the party plan exists."

The veto and the President's strenuous objection to that provision of the bill is a hard blow to the political machine of Senator Byrd (D., Va.). Byrd's forces are doing what they can to kill off the nonpartisan movements that have taken over control of both Arlington County and Alexandria. Federal workers are spearheading the nonpartisan groups.

The bill to amend the Hatch Act would have damaged the nonpartisan movement which is spreading into other Virginia communities.

In explaining his other objection, the President said it was a "long-recognized prerogative of the Chief Executive to maintain in confidence those papers and documents which, in the public interest, he feels should be so maintained . . . I cannot accept or give my approval to any act of the Congress which would threaten or diminish so preeminently necessary a right of the Chief Executive."

Dr. Ruhland Resigns Cancer Society Post

Dr. George C. Ruhland, retired District Health officer, has resigned as director of the District Division of the American Cancer Society, it was learned yesterday.

He gave up the post early this month, he said.

Dr. Peter D. Comanduras, former medical director of the District organization, is handling the details of the executive post until a successor is picked.

Dr. Ruhland became director last October immediately on retirement as District health officer. He said that after 40 years of active service he couldn't very well stop working completely.

But the job, he explained yesterday, didn't even give him partial retirement; and his wife's health required that he spend more and more time at home.

"Now I'm really retired, and it feels strange," he remarked.

Dr. Ruheland said, however, that he will keep on with his fight to correct medical licensure laws that restrict doctors from practicing except in States where they hold licenses. "This is absurd and unreasonable," he declared.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS
IN THE
WASHINGTON SUBURBAN SANITARY DISTRICT

Due to the advent of hot weather the water consumption of the Sanitary District has now reached such amount that greater conservation in the use of water from the public supply must be exercised to properly protect the public health and safety.

IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT PURSUANT TO THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 10, CHAPTER 122 OF THE ACTS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF MARYLAND OF 1918 AND AMENDMENTS THERETO, IT SHALL BE UNLAWFUL FOR ANY PERSON, FIRM OR CORPORATION, OR HIS, HER OR THEIR AGENTS OR EMPLOYEES TO USE ANY WATER SUPPLY FURNISHED BY THIS COMMISSION FOR THE PURPOSE OF WATERING OR SPRINKLING ANY LAWNS, SHRUBBERY, FLOWERS OR GARDENS, OR FOR ANY PURPOSE OTHER THAN FOR FAMILY OR BUSINESS USE WITHIN THE BUILDING AFTER JULY 1, 1950, UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE BY THIS COMMISSION, EXCEPT THAT THE WATERING OF PLANTS AND SHRUBBERY BY THE USE OF A SPRINKLING CAN OR BUCKET, WITHOUT THE USE OF A HOSE OR PIPES, AND OF NEWLY LAID SOD UNDER THE CONDITIONS OF A SPECIAL PERMIT, WILL BE PERMITTED.

Some of the necessary works to augment the water supply and the distribution system of the Sanitary District have been completed and the remainder should be completed well before next summer so that it will not be necessary to impose similar restrictions on the use of water. The cooperation of the people in the conservation of water is therefore earnestly requested at this time. If it is forthcoming there will be, barring unforeseen major accident, enough water for the essential needs of the community and to provide for the tremendous building operations now occurring in the area.

Business Forecast for '51

J. A. Livingston

When more than three-dozen top-ranking U. S. economists put their heads together to consider the business future, what are their predictions?

The Washington Post's noted financial writer J. A. Livingston devotes his column "Business Outlook" on Sunday and Monday to an analysis of these guesstimates on industrial production, department store sales, weekly wages, the cost of living, stock prices, farm prosperity and unemployment.

Vatican Order Hits Satellites' Churches

Vatican City, June 30 (U.P.).—Pope Pius XII, in a blow at Communist-organized "national" churches, today ordered automatic excommunication of any Catholic who seeks to undermine legitimate church authorities or who takes church office without Vatican approval.

The decree of "major excommunication" issued through the Sacred Congregation of the Council, said the ban could be lifted only by the Vatican, not by local bishops subject to Communist pressure.

An excommunicated Catholic layman may not be married or baptized in the church, be buried in hallowed ground or receive any major Catholic sacraments.

Priests affected by the order also will be barred from divine services. Catholics will be ordered to shun them.

Today's decree came almost exactly a year after the order issued last July excommunicating all Catholic Communists.

The order said priests who accept church appointments from Communist authorities "must be considered, not as ministers of the church, but as thieves and assassins."

Missouri Synod Acts

Lutheran Reunion Move Underway

Milwaukee, June 30 (U.P.).—The Missouri Lutheran Synod took the first step today toward reuniting with the American Lutherans and ending a 69-year split between the two churches over doctrinal matters.

Members of the Missouri Synod approved a "common confession" document today on the final day of their 10-day forty-first triennial convention.

The document is an agreement on doctrinal matters between the two churches covering God, man, redemption, election, means of grace, justification, conversion, sanotification, the church, the ministry and other matters.

The agreement was reached after conferences by committees of both churches and will be "recognized" when and if the American Lutheran Church accepts it at its October convention at Columbus, Ohio, officials of the Missouri Synod said. The churches split in 1881 over a controversy on predestination.

The Missouri Synod, largest single body within the Lutheran Church, has 1,750,000 members, and the American Lutherans have 889,000 members.

Delegates resolved that the Missouri Synod "should seek a God-pleasing unity with all Lutherans" but pointed out that the common confession did not establish "church fellowship" with the American Lutheran Church.

Dr. John W. Behnken, Oak Park, Ill., president of the Missouri Synod, was authorized to announce "fellowship" officially "when everything necessary for it has been accomplished."

Dr. Kelly to Preach

The Rev. Dr. John Bailey Kelly, pastor emeritus of Georgetown Presbyterian Church, 3105 P st., nw., will preach at 11 a. m. during July.

Program, Supper Shifted

The program and supper hour of the Young People's Luther League will be interchanged beginning Sunday. The meeting will begin at 6 p. m. and the supper at 7 p. m. at the Lutheran Church Center, 736 Jackson pl. nw.

Dr. Pennington Will Preach at St. John's Sunday

The Historiographer of the Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Edgar Legare Pennington, will preach at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Dr. Pennington is rector of St. John's Church, Mobile, Ala. At Episcopal Church in San Francisco last autumn he was elected official historiographer of the denomination.

During World War I, Dr. Pennington served as an ensign in the Navy reserves. He was graduated from Cornell University in 1923 and received B. D. and S. T. D. degrees from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

In World War II, he served as a Navy chaplain in the South Pacific.

Former Korean Missionary . . .

By Bob Burchette—The Washington Post
Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Kang with Mrs. Kang at work at home

A Korean-born Presbyterian minister believes that the Korean struggle is "fundamentally a religious war between brother and brother."

The Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Kang minister of a Presbyterian mission in Seoul in 1926, said this is true since "some northern Koreans are in the south and some southerners above the line."

"The separation of northern and southern Korea was a tragedy," Dr. Kang stated, "for the people are homogeneous, and even the language has few dialects."

Army Translator

Dr. Kang, who lives at 1811 3d st. ne., studied at the Chicago Presbyterian Seminary in 1928. Ten years later he received his PhD from New York University and for the next five years served the United Presbyterian Church in Jersey City.

As chief of translators with the American Army of Occupation in Korea, Dr. Kang returned to Seoul in 1947.

"Although the people of Korea have been pessimistic since the Japanese occupation of 1910, they are a freedom-loving, gentle people," he said. "They have accepted Christianity wholeheartedly since the time of the first Christian missions—about 1882."

Christianity is today the leading religion there, he said, though there are some Buddhists and Confuscianists and, one religion peculiar to the Koreans—Shunto-Kyo—still exists.

Many Christians in North

There were many more Christian churches in North Korea before the division of the country, Dr. Kang pointed out. Pyongyang, capitol of North Korea, was the center of Christian activities.

After World War II, missionary work in southern Korea was revived. In Seoul are many large congregations and more than 50 Presbyterian churches. Church leadership was taken over by the Koreans themselves as time went on.

In Korea, Christians alone celebrate Christmas, Thanksgiving and the major feasts. Church services follow the same order as in this country.

"In South Korea during the occupation of American Army Forces there was freedom of religion, press, assembly, and encouragement by the American forces and said. Since the separation little has been heard from the northern Korean churches.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Kang have members of their families living in Seoul. They had heard frequently from their friends and relatives until several weeks ago and the letters indicated that the feeling in Korea was that a crisis was coming.

7 Day Mission Here Planned By Federation

Plans for a week-long preaching mission this fall are being completed by the Washington Federation of Churches.

The mission will be held from October 29 to November 3, and will feature daily Bible lectures in 11 different parts of the city. Original plans called for division of the city into six areas for this phase of the mission, but the popularity of the program made it necessary to increase the number, federation officials said.

The mission is part of a 15-month program of evangelism by the cooperative Protestant agency. Earlier in the year the federation sponsored a religious census and a program of visitation evangelism.

A service at Uline Arena on Sunday, October 29, will open the mission. Speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Robert McCracken, pastor of Riverside Church, New York City.

Lectures during the week will be at different times of the day, morning, afternoon and evening. Guest speakers are expected to give more than 350 talks and lectures.

Bible lecturers for the week will be the Rev. Dr. Harvey D. Hoover of Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. Chester W. Quimby of Cornell College, the Rev. Dr. J. Montgomery Shroyer of Westminster Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Dr. Myrddyn W. Jones of Waynesboro, Pa.

In addition, two Washington women will lead the lectures. They are Mrs. Jessie Burrall Eubank, assistant to the pastor at National Baptist Memorial Church, and Mrs. J. M. Dawson, a member of First Baptist Church.

D. C. Family Safe in Japan From Korea

Nashville, Tenn., June 30 (AP).—The Board of World Missions of the Presbyterian Church, United States, said today 50 of its missionary personnel in Korea have been evacuated to Japan.

In the group was a member of a Washington family and another who preached in Washington several years ago.

The board said it received a cablegram from its representative, S. Dwight Winn, announcing the arrival of the missionaries and members of their families in Kukuoka, Japan. Winn did not disclose how they were evacuated, the board said.

Ten Presbyterian missionaries still are in South Korea, it added.

In the group is the Rev. Robert K. Robinson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Robinson and brother of Mrs. Charles E. Schuyler, of 4914 Chesapeake st. nw. Evacuated with the Rev. Mr. Robinson were his wife and two children, Peter and Dorothy. They sailed from New Orleans for Korea last August 4.

Also evacuated were the Rev. M. M. Miller, of Biloxi, Miss., who preached one summer about five years ago at Central Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Miller and their two children.

Among others evacuated were: the Rev. Bruce A. Cummings of Ocala, Fla., and Mrs. Cummings, formerly of Baltimore, and their daughter, Mary Bruce Cummings. They had just arrived in Korea. Also, the Rev. and Mrs. Eugene Daniel and daughter, Sally Preston Daniel. Mrs. Daniel is from Abingdon, Va.

Tydings Urges Quick Completion of Parkway As 'Absolutely Indispensable' for D. C. Defense

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Completion of the Washington-Baltimore parkway has a "high" defense priority and is "absolutely indispensable" to Washington in event of an atomic bomb attack, Senator Millard Tydings (D., Md.) said yesterday.

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee hinged his defense argument on the fact that the highway would be connected directly with the new Friendship Airport, 10 miles southeast of Baltimore.

The Senate group is considering the House-approved measure that authorizes 13 million dollars to Committee the Maryland airport might escape damage in an enemy attack on either city.

complete the roadway from Fort Meade to the District Line.

The committee, after its closed-door session yesterday, decided no further hearings will be necessary.

Because of Friendship's location, Tydings said, it "takes on a defense stature which few airports in the country surpass."

He speculated that most civilian and military airports around Washington "are within the area of destruction or denial of use, if a modern hydrogen or atomic bomb hits the Capital City."

It is therefore "imperative that every defense accessory possible be connected with Friendship," he declared. He urged that funds to begin building the 13-mile stretch be made available "quickly."

He warned further that atomic and hydrogen bomb development eventually will produce a bomb that will "wipe out most of the population of the world's largest cities." This indicates, he said, that either Baltimore or Washington might be destroyed.

Representative George H. Fallon (D., Md.) joined Tydings in urging a prompt approval of the parkway legislation. He said Maryland is now completing the section of road from Baltimore to Jessups rd., near Fort Meade.

Four Are Elected To Big Brothers Directors' Board

Four persons were elected yesterday to the board of directors of Big Brothers of D. C., Inc.

The new directors are Louis J. Sharp, assistant chief of probation, Administrative Office of the United States Courts; Dr. Ruth Eled, associate professor of social research, Catholic University; Milton S. Kronheim, president of Milton S. Kronheim & Co., Inc., and Harold A. MacCallum, Department of National Defense.

The board elected William R. Franck as acting director in charge of the Big Brothers office in the Century Building. Curtis Shears, president, appointed Malcolm Graham chairman of the membership committee to indoctrinate prospective members.

Hickenlooper Says Pike Opposed H-Bomb Work

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), asserted last night that Sumner T. Pike opposed development of the hydrogen bomb and "is not the most desirable man for another four-year term on the Atomic Energy Commission."

He made the statement on Mutual Broadcasting System's "Meet the Press" program after Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.), announced he will seek a Senate vote next Wednesday on President Truman's renomination of Pike.

Pike has been acting chairman of the commission since February 15. His term expired yesterday. Senate members of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee voted 5 to 4 Thursday to recommend the Senate reject his reappointment.

Hickenlooper, ranking Republican on the committee, said he respects Pike's "personal honesty" and patriotism, but believes "his judgment and the policies he supports are inimical to the best interests of the country."

(The Atomic Energy Commission announced last night that Gordon Dean will be acting chairman pending appointment of a permanent chairman. He is the senior member left on the five-man board.)

Smokey, Mortified by Entrancing Effect Of Forester's Cap, Retires to Den at Zoo

By William Klemm—The Washington Post

ZOO CEREMONY—In a ceremony that was accompanied by the laughter and cheers of a large crowd, little Smokey, the refugee from a New Mexico forest fire, was presented to Dr. William T. Mann, Zoo director (rear), by Assistant Game Warden Homer C. Pickens (right). Spicer Conant, 8 (left), accepted Smokey on behalf of the children of Washington after Stanlee Ann Miller, 11, made the presentation speech

Smokey, the walking teddy bear, tried on a forester's hat and capered about the lawn yesterday to give 300 squealing children a fairy-book day at the Zoo.

The 3-month-old, 10-pound cub put on his own one-bear show after being formally presented to the children of America as a reminder of the danger of forest fires.

Smokey was found badly burned and clinging to a smoking stump after a cigarette-started forest fire in New Mexico, but is fully recovered now.

United States Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico welcomed his former constituent to his new home in the Zoo. The Senator's granddaughter, 11-year-old Stanlee Ann Miller of Albuquerque, presented Smokey, who was accepted by 8-year-old Spicer Conant, 3063 Ordway st. nw., on behalf of the children of Washington. Zoo Director William M. Mann and United States Chief Forester Lyle F. Watts also spoke.

Smokey pulled a proffered forester's hat right down over his ears with his paws. Then he was led around the grass while the children screamed with delight and photographers flashed scores of bulbs—a publicity fate that has been Smokey's since he became nationally famous in New Mexico.

The ceremonies over yesterday, Smokey was put in his pen and home-at-last.

The first thing he did was walk straight over, climb in his den and disappear for a little bear privacy.

C. W. Warren Dies as He Quits Service

Stricken just as he handed his retirement papers to the chief clerk of the Postoffice Department, Charles W. Warren, high-ranking postal official, died unexpectedly here yesterday.

Mr. Warren

Mr. Warren, 68, was completing 51 years of Government service, and at about 10:30 a. m. yesterday, had gone to the office of chief clerk, E. B. Johnson, to sign his retirement papers, when he suddenly became ill. He was pronounced dead a short time later.

Mr. Warren, who began his career at 17 in the Federal service as a messenger in the Interior Department, was superintendent of the division of office services for the postal department at the time of his death. It was a position he had held since 1934.

He had been commended last November by Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson when he completed 50 years of Government service.

Relatives said late yesterday that the postal executive had been under a doctor's care for the past five months.

A native of Washington, Mr. Warren lived with his wife and stepson, Kondrup Graves, at 3012 Cambridge pl. nw.

Funeral services will be held in Arlington Cemetery at 2 p. m. Wednesday, with burial there.

Monticello Invites BSA

Charlottesville, Va., June 30 (AP)—William S. Hildreth, president of Monticello Foundation, today invited Boy Scouts of America to hold next year's jamboree at Monticella, the 900-acre Jefferson estate.

T. S. Insley, Retired Judge, Dies

Salisbury, Md., June 30 (AP).—T. Sangston Insley, 77, retired associate judge of Maryland's First Judicial Circuit, died at the home of his son here today after a heart attack.

He was invalided two years ago by a paralytic stroke and moved here from his home at Cambridge to live with the son, Dr. Phillip A. Insley.

A daughter, Mrs. Kent Jacobs of Cambridge, also survives.

Judge Kinsley had been inactive since he left the bendch in 1942 on reaching 70, retirement age for Maryland judges.

He was elected an associate judge of the lower Eastern Shore circuit in 1934 and began his service in December of that year.

The honor climaxed a busy career and was attained the hard way. Judge Insley did not go to college but read law in the offices of two Cambridge attorneys, one of whom later became a chief judge of the circuit.

When he took the bar examination he scored 98-plus, one of the highest ever recorded.

He was born in lower Dorchester County. He was graduated from Cambridge High School at the head of his class.

He married in 1902, and his wife died many years ago.

Funeral services will be held at Grace Methodist Church in Cambridge Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Burial will be in Christ Episcopal Church.

Marbury Asks Appeals Court Of 7 Members

Atlantic City, N. J., June 30.—Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Maryland Court of Appeals today proposed that the court be increased to a seven-judge tribunal.

Under a constitutional amendment adopted recently, the court membership was reduced from an eight to five, but the full effect of the amendment has not been realized and there are still six judges on the court.

Judge Marbury, in a proposal placed before the annual convention of the Maryland Bar Association here, declared that the need for more appellate judges is imminent. He urged that action be taken now to get the legislative machinery in action.

The amendment reducing the size of the court, he said, was sponsored on the basis of a "mistaken view" that the work of the Appeals Court would not materially increase. A record number of 216 cases was heard last term, in addition to 40 habeas corpus cases, he explained.

The judge, in a letter to the association, also recommended that Orphans' Courts be abolished and that authority be granted to appoint additional circuit judges when they are needed throughout the State.

The association unanimously voted to name a committee to consider and report on Judge Marbury's recommendations. In other actions it:

1. Supported, after considerable debate, a motion to seek a 50 percent increase in judicial pensions to compensate for the increased cost of living. The proposal would give a maximum pension of $9000 a year to Circuit and Baltimore Supreme Bench judges, and $11,000 to judges of the Court of Appeals.

2. By a vote of 83 to 48, adopted a resolution opposing genocide, or the mass killing of people, but opposed adoption by the United States of a treaty outlawing genocide on the ground that the treaty, in its present form, is not clearly drawn.

3. Adopted a resolution opposing President Truman's compulsory health insurance plan.

Indians Bump Off Tigers, 11-3; Easter Smacks 2 Homers

Cleveland, June 30 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians scored seven times in the second inning on five hits and five walks off Detroit Pitchers Hal Newhouser and Paul Trout tonight and went on to win, 11-3. Luke Easter hit two home runs and Al Rosen slugged one for the Tribe.

Cleveland's fourteenth win in 17 games was scored before 50,882 and opened an important four-game series with the league leaders.

Pitcher Mike Garcia gave up five hits in picking up his sixth victory of the season and his fifth win in a row.

Newhouser was chased in the second after giving up three walks and two singles. It was his third straight loss.

Easter's thirteenth and fourteenth home runs accounted for four Indian runs in the first two innings. Rosen's twentyfirst homer came in the eighth after Doby had singled.

Vic Wertz' eighth inning double scored two Detroit runs and Don Kolloway's double scored Aaron Robinson with the other in the seventh.

Larry Doby went bat-in-hand after Trout after being sent sprawling to the dirt in the second by a close pitch. Players from both clubs poured onto the field but umpires quieted the fuss before any fists were thrown.

Phils Whip Dodgers, 8-5; Take Lead

Philadelphia, June 30 (AP).—The Phillies pounded out four runs in the eighth inning tonight to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8 to 5, and take over first place in the National League.

Willie Jones started the Phils' rally with a single. Dick Sisler walked and Andy Seminick singled to score Jones. Mike Goliat bounced a single off Don Newcombe's shins to load the bases and Jim Bloodworth, batting for Jim Konstanty, doubled to score Ralph Caballero, who ran for Sisler, and Seminick and Goliat.

Hodges hit his ninth homer with one out in the eighth to put the Dodgers out in front 5-4 before the Phillies opened their rally which carried them to victory.

Navy Gets Even Break With Army

President Truman yesterday signed into law a bill designed to give the United States Naval Academy an equal break with the military academy in recruiting football players.

The measure gives the Annapolis institution a privilege which West Point has long enjoyed—that of filling vacancies which occur when regular appointees fail to qualify.

Quantico Wins Over Ft. Myer

Quantico, Va., June 30.—The Quantico Marines trounced Fort Myer, 17-7, here tonight for their sixtieth victory in 69 starts. Mike Ilitch paced the winners with two singles and a double, three stolen bases and four runs batted in.

London Shocked

Blimy! Yanks Beat British At Own Game

LONDON, JUNE 30 (AP).—England's 1-0 loss to the United States in the World Cup Soccer Tournament in Brazil brought tears to the eyes of British sports writers today.

Here in the cradle of soccer, a Daily Express report on Page 1 said:

"It marks the lowest ever for British sport."

Roy Peskett of the Daily Mail said in another Page 1 story:

"A fitter, faster, fighting team of the United States have done the unbelievable! This is the biggest soccer upset of all time."

IN THE DAILY Graphic, John Gaydon lamented: "It was pathetic to see the cream of English players beaten by a side (team) most amateur players at home would have beaten, and there was no fluke about it."

Americans here said it compared to a major league all-star team being beaten in London by nine part-time English baseball players.

IN HONG KONG, the Associated Press office telephone jangled again and again.

"Is it true?" asked an anxious voice.

"No, no," an editor replied automatically, the United States and Russia have not declared war.

"No, no," came back the voice, "that's not what I mean. Is it true that the United States beat Britain in the World Soccer Cup?"

"Yes," answered the Associated Press editor.

"Why those cheeky Americans," came the reply.

2 Favorites Win Rich Laurel Races

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Only three favorites won last night at Laurel Raceway but they picked up the money.

Solicitor, 2-year-old pacer owned by tobacco magnate William N. Reynolds, won his division of the $10,000 Lord Calvert pace and then took the eighth race run off. Solicitor was favored both times and paid $3.80 and $4, respectively.

In the big pace for 3-year-olds, also for $10,000, Ferman Hanover was the public choice and returned $6.

The rest of the night, the banner crowd of 10,000 that wagered

Caribee Wins Virginia Cup Cruising Race

Hampton, Va., June 30 (AP).—Carleton Mitchell's Caribee, out of Annapolis, Md., streaked across the Old Point Comfort finish line far in the van of 18 other pursuing yachts this afternoon in the Virginia Cruising Cup race.

The unofficial elapsed time for the Caribee, a 58-foot ocean-going racing yacht, was figured at 26 hours, 45 minutes and 51 seconds.

Mitchell's boat seemed to have a comfortable margin over the rest of the fleet and may remain in first place after corrected times have been calculated.

Mitchell, well known yachting writer and author of a book, "Islands to Windward," said:

"We haven't seen another boat since Thursday night, even through high powered glasses."

The race started yesterday at Annapolis, Md.

Wampler, McCall Make Golf Finals

Albuquerque, N. Mex., June 30 (AP).—Fred Wampler, former Big Ten champ from Purdue, and Bob McCall of Colgate won their way into an All-Eastern final in the NCAA Golf Tournament today.

Wampler defeated Billy Maxwell, North Texas State 3 and 1 and McCall defeated Ray Harris, Wake Forest, 5 and 4.

Bogley, De Voe Lose in Doubles

Louisville, June 30 (AP). — Gil Bogley and Charles De Voe of Princeton were defeated, 6-3, 6-3, by Jim Brink and Fred Fisher in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles in the Southern tennis tournament here today.

Eddie Joost Hits Homer In 8th to Win Second

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Up from last place, the Philadelphia Athletics brought a one-two punch last night, flattend the Nats in a double-header, and caused International complications. The losing pitchers were Senors Conrado Marrero and Sandalio Consuegra, the Nats' Cuban comrades from Havana.

The A's made short work of the pint-sized Marrero, dispatching him in the sixth inning on their way to a 7-6 victory. Consuegra was doing very well until he bumped into a two-run homer by Senor Eddie Joost in the eighth inning. That licked him, 4-2.

Senor Joost made only one hit all evening, but that one was loaded. He disabused the Nats of the idea they might get an even break for the night by belting a Consuegra pitch into the left field bleachers after Fain opened the eighth inning with a single. It unlocked a 2-2 tie.

First Twin Win for A's

It was the first time all season that the A's had won a double header. They wiped out 3-0 and 6-4 leads off Marrero in the first game, and then threw Lou Brissle at the Nats as a relief pitcher. He pitched shut-out ball in the last four innings, nullifying a snazzy relief job by Micky Harris.

Southpaw Alex Kellner won the second game, putting down a Washington threat in the ninth after Dente led off with a single. Mickey Grasso, who had drive in the Nats' only two runs, obliged Kellner by hitting into a double play at that point. Pinch Hitter Roberto Ortiz followed with a single, but Yost's fly ball clinched it for the A's.

They got a 1-0 lead out of Consuegra in the first inning with the help of Grasso's wild throw while trying to pick Elmer Valo off first base. In the third they made it 2-0 on singles by Dillinger, Kellner and Chapman.

Grasso Bats in 2 Runs

Grasso atoned for his error by driving in the tying runs in the fifth. Ostrowski singled and Dente's long drive fell for a double when Lehner dropped the ball after a long run. That's when Grasso singled both of 'em home with a single to left before anybody was out.

The Nats muffed a bigger inning at that point. Consuegra popped trying to bunt. Yost beat out a bunt, but Combs hit into a D. P.

Nats Start Fast in Opener

The Nats were acting as if they were going to win that first game in a romp. They teed off on Righthander Hank Wyse for three runs in the first inning on Yost's single, a walk to Combs, Noren's single to right, Mele's single to center, and Stewart's long fly ball.

Noren helped Marrero out of a spot in the first inning after Moses and Valo belted consecutive singles to center with one out. Noren unleashed an on-the-fly throw to Yost that nipped Moses at second base, to deflate the scoring threat.

Marrero had no more trouble until the fourth and then there was a gob of it, that happened after two were out. Fain singled to right, Joost walked, Hitchcock dumped a single into center, Guerra tripled to center and the A's were in a 3-3 tie. Yost messed up a bounder off Wyse's bat and it went as a single, scoring Guerra and moving the A's in front, 4-3.

The Nats bounced back in the fifth to reclaim the lead at 6-4 after Combs led off with a single and Noren walked. Vernon sacrificed, and Mele, belted a two-run single to left. Stewart doubled, moving Mele to third, and after Dente got an intentional pass, Mele scored while Evans was

Elkridge Winner in $10,000 'Cap

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Delaware Park, June 30.—Given an ovation as he crossed the finish line, Kent Miller's Elkridge, the "Iron Horse," won the $10,000 added Indian River Steeplechase Handicap here today for the fifth time in his career.

"Old Elkie," 12-year-old son of Mate, coasted into the wire nine lengths in front of his closet rival to be greeted by a round of applause mixed with some cheering, as he turned in the thirtieth victory in his lifetime of 109 starts.

Robert W. Grant's Sun Bath was second, four lengths in front of Mill River Stable's Monkey Wrench. The latter was the only other horse to finish the gruelling test of about two miles and a half over 16 fences.

While Elkridge, who has fallen only once in his many outings, fenced perfectly, three of the six starters went down. Mrs. Esther DuPont Darjeeling fell at the fourth fence while in the role of favorite and suffered a severe injury to his right foreleg which probably means he is through as a competitor.

Elkridge, carrying top weight of 154 pounds, was second choice in the betting and paid a $6.70 mutuel. The jumping course was termed "good" and the old fellow was clocked in 4:51. Last year Elkridge set the record with 4:45 3/5.

Manor Star Wins it 4th Time in Row

By Dave Heller
Post Reporter

Manor's Mrs. A. B. Bower played steady golf yesterday to annex her fourth Women's District golf title, defeating Kenwood's perennial challenger, Mrs. Betty Meckley, 4 and 2, at Indian Spring.

It was a battle between two three-time champions in the finals of the week-long tourney. Mrs. Meckley was champion in 1931, 1932 and 1937 and Mrs. Bower in 1946, 1948 and 1949.

After a shaky start in which both took bogey fives on the first hole, Mrs. Bower settled down to win the second hole with a par four after Mrs. Meckley missed a short putt to card a five.

After the next four holes were halved, Mrs. Meckley came back to win the seventh, the only hole she took during the match.

Mrs. Meckley reached the green in two and two-putted for a par four. Mrs. Bower's approach shot on the 355-yard hole was over the green and into the rough. Her chip shot left the ball 20 feet from the pin. She missed the putt.

Mrs. Meckley's drive on the 395-yard eighth hole landed behind the trunk of a large tree. After spending two shots in a futile effort to get it out, she conceded the hole to Mrs. Bower.

The ninth hole was halved with bogey fives, leaving Mrs. Meckley one down at the turn. Mrs. Bower was out in 39 and Mrs. Meckley in 41.

Mrs. Bower lost a chance to gain on the tenth when she three-putted for the only time during the match. Both took bogey fives.

Mrs. Meckley's tee shot on the eleventh was in the trees again and she lost the hole when Mrs. Bower got a par three on the 220-yard hole.

The fifteenth was halved with bogey fives, and Mrs. Meckley's last chance of prolonging the match on the 360-yard sixteenth when Mrs. Bower chipped her third shot from 70 feet out to within 3 feet of the pin. After taking a five on the hole, Mrs. Mackley conceded the hole and the match to Mrs. Bower.

Mrs. Bower was six over par for the 16 holes and Mrs. Meckley 11 over.

Bill Bennings

Dear Folks:

The local stewards suspended their ninth jockey of the meeting, giving Henri Mora the four remaining days of the local session, plus 10 more. Mora, who was riding for the first time since he broke a collarbone seven weeks ago, was alleged to have failed to keep his mount, Caraway, straight in the stretch. The stewards made the severe ruling after viewing the movies of the race. One rider said, "There's nine of us on the ground now. Maybe we can form a baseball team." Charlestown opens with the weekend program and promises a lot of action for the District area fans. Two races daily, the fifth and sixth, will be broadcast daily over Chuck Dulane's WGAY program at approximately 4 and 4:30 p. m. See you on the rail.

Bigger Fields for 15-Day Meet

Charles Town Opens Today; Has Best Horses in 17 Years

With the best grade of horses available in the 17-year-history of the track, Charles Town opens its 15-day summer meeting this afternoon with a 2 p. m. post time for the first race. For the first time since the early sessions of the oval, 10 horses instead of the usual eight will go postward in most races.

The racing strip, rebuilt a year ago, has proven safe and officials decided to go along with horsemen who had requested larger fields and more chances at purses.

The Fleetwood Purse, a test of 6½ furlongs, heads the opening day program. A limit field was named for the test for 3-year-olds and upward with a $1200 purse offered.

Bullhead, something of a champion during the other 1950 sessions, has been assigned 118 pounds, providing he carries an apprentice rider. Rough Ordy gets by with 118.

The Baltimore & Ohio will run its usual special train to the track, leaving Union Station at 12 noon, stopping at Silver Spring and Rockville.

Top U. S. Net Team Upset

Wimbledon, England, June 30 (AP).—Frank Sedgman, and Ken McGregor, two of Australia's young Davis Cub hopefuls, pulled the biggest upset of the All-England Lawn Tennis Championships today when they eliminated the top-seeded American doubles team of Gardnar Mulloy and Bill Talbert, 8—6, 8—6, 8—10, 10—8.

This struck a real body blow at the United States hopes for hanging onto the Davis Cup—already none too bright.

It remained for the women to uphold the United States prestige in today's matches. Nine American girls gained the round of 16, including Defending Champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont, national champion, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., Shirly Fry of Akron, Ohio, and Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla.

Miss Brough whipped Mrs. Joy Mottram of England, 9—7, 6—2; Mrs. Todd overcame Patsy Rogers of England, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Fry eliminated Mrs. Rita Anderson of Hollywood, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Hart crushed Gem Hoahing of England, 6—2, 6—3, and Mrs. duPont defeated Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith of England, 6—3, 6—3.

Gussie Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., showed the latest in her long series of tennis court fashions, a pair of delicately scalloped filmy briefs. She teamed with Adrian Quist to win a third round mixed doubles match from Drago Mitic and Miss Ward, 6—3, 7—5.

Most of the other American girls played under wraps. Dorothy Head of Alameda, Calif., lost one set to Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, but it was her own fault. She had a one-set lead and a 5-3 edge in games when she suddenly lost control of her drives and started hitting the ball yards off the court. She lost the set, but recovered to post a 6-3, 5-7, 6-2 victory.

Still left in women's singles are Miss Hart, Miss Brough, Mrs. DuPont, Miss Head, Miss Fry, Nancy Chaffee, Barbara Scofield and Mrs. Todd of the United States, Mrs. Maria Weiss of Argentina, and six British players, Mrs. Betty Hilton Harrison, Joan Curry, Jean Quertier, Mrs. W. C. Halford, Mrs. Roy McKelvie and F. M. Andrews.

Gussy Gives British Some "Apple Pie" Cheese Cake

Wimbledon, June 30 (AP).—Gertrude "Gorgeous Gussie" Moran wore her new apple pie panties on Wimbledon's center court today.

They are white briefs scalloped around the edges like the favorite American dessert.

There was no question about anybody not seeing them. Gussie's short tennis frock was so sheer that the scalloping underneath was visible from the topmost seats in the stands.

Heurich Turns Back Randall; Printers Lose to Bodyworks

Jerry Zanelotti rapped out a home run and two singles to lead Heurich Brewers to an 8-1 victory over Randall Motors in The Washington Post Industrial League yesterday on the Ellipse.

Red Bladen and Max Coe also collected three hits each for Heurich. The winners have won two games and lost one. Randall has a 1-1 record.

Mrs. Herbert Gains Finals

Mrs. Willie Herbert, defending singles champion, defeated fourth-seeded Mrs. Pearl McCoy in the National Capital Public Parks tennis tourney yesterday, 6—0, 6—2, to move into today's final round against Socie Girgosian at 16th and Kennedy sts. nw.

Willie also teamed with her husband, Georfie for a mixed Mrs. Paul Buskey, 6—2, 6—3, and will compete for that title in that doubles victory over Captain and division tomorrow against Miss Girgosian and Dick Leighton.

Although rivals in two final matches, Mrs. Herbert and Miss Girgosian will be teammates in the women's doubles finals today, facing Ann Fennessey and Linda Williams for the crown.

The men's doubles also will wind up this afternoon with first-seeded Ed Richardson and Roy Carruthers meeting second-ranked Walt Kemetick and Arnold Kotz. Finals in the men's singles will be staged tomorrow.

Marines Win, 7-5

Harris moved in at that point, with none out and men on first and second. Moses hit into a force play, and Wyse moved to third. Valo also grounded to Dente for another force play at second, and Wyse scored from third.

When Yost led off the sixth with a walk, Connie Mack got Wyse out of there and moved Brissie in. He eased the pressure immediately by getting rid of Combs on a fly ball and fanning Noren. Vernon singled and Mele walked to fill the bases, but Stewart left 'em there with a pop foul out.

Twomey Upsets Finnish Stars

Helsinki, June 30 (AP).—Paced by John Twomey of the Illinois A. C., who scored an upset victory in the 1500-meter run, a United States track and field team won eight out of nine events from Finnish athletes today in Helsinki Stadium.

Yesterday, Uncle Sam's track and fieldsters swept all nine events from the Finns.

Running in a drizzling rain, Twomey, the United States 1500-meter champion, beat both of Finland's favorites, J. Taipale and D. Johanson, in 3:53.2.

The only American loser of the day was Jack Razzetto, the San Diego State high jumper. He leaped 6 feet 2¾ inches, but was beaten by the Finnish ace, K. Nicklen, who soared 6 feet 4 inches.

One of the high spots of yesterday's sweep was a Finnish record 13.9 performance by Dick Attlesey in winning the 110-meter high hurdles. The Southern Californian's time was the best ever made for the event in Finland.

"When it comes to Milk, Commissioners, I'm qualified to judge!"

It wasn't so very long ago that the hospital took my tonsils out 'cause the nurse said that good cowboys didn't have them. All the things they used for my operation they steam sterilized first to kill tiny bacteria that cause people a lot of trouble. Hospitals have to be sure about everything, and that's the way every one of us should feel about milk, too.

Steam sterilization of milk-handling equipment is the sure way to keep it clean, pure, and sweet. Our elders made sure of that twenty-five years ago by really cracking down on bacteria in milk. The Health Officer forced every farm supplying the District to sterilize every milk pail, milk can and other utensil in live steam. That's why we have the best milk in the world right here at home.

Before that time milk drinking was as dangerous as being a cowboy on our TV set. Those tiny things like bacteria got into it and made all sorts of trouble for us kids. I've heard my grandpop say that many got sick and some didn't even grow up at all.

Now there seems to be some controversy over a temporary measure made several years before my time.

A little milk was permitted into the District from farms using an inferior method of washing their utensils in chemicals. It's suggested that we continue these temporary measures and permit the chemical swishers from everywhere to bring their milk here . . . even though there's plenty of milk for all us kids from farms using steam sterilization. It sounds like back-sliding to me.

We still can have the cleanest, the sweetest, the purest milk in the world and protect our health if we all stick up for steam sterilization. The 1,700 dairy farmers in our locality, members of this association, have the boilers and all the equipment, such as this sterilizing cabinet, that's accepted under the association's high standards.

The members of this association of dairy farmers are glad to keep steam sterilization. They can't keep it if a double-health-standard is allowed in the District milk supply.

Here's What You Can Do

On July 10, a hearing will be held by the District Commissioners on the subject of making the temporary measure on chemical sterilization permanent. We want you to go to this hearing, or send a representative from your church or club. We know the Commissioners are interested in our welfare, so speak up for us and let them know that sweet, clean, pure milk . . . through live steam sterilization is of vital interest to you, too.

Gala Celebration For Stay-at-Homes Planned; Weather Due to Be 'Normal'

Thousands of Government and other workers closed up their desks with a bang yesterday and headed for Union Station, the airport or bus terminals to start the usual holiday trek out of the city.

With July 4 falling on Tuesday, the majority were expected to take a day's leave Monday in order to enjoy a long four-day weekend.

For the stay-at-homes and visitors, there will be a gala celebration here, ending with the traditional display of fireworks on the grounds of the Washington Monument Tuesday evening. Special activities are also scheduled during the day at a number of recreation centers.

Normal Weather Expected

In a long-range forecast, the weather man predicted the temperature in Washington during the next five days will average near normal for this time of year, which should see a high of 86 and a low of 67 degrees.

Sunday and Monday will be on the warm side, but by Wednesday it will be much cooler, he said. The first part of the week will see showers, bringing a probable total of one half to three quarters of an inch of rain.

In Maryland and Virginia, the weekend will be cool and mostly sunny, with rain likely on Monday, forecasters predicted.

Department stores will be closed Tuesday, but will remain open Monday. The same is true of the large chain grocery stores. Most of the downtown restaurants will remain open over the holiday.

While the number of travelers by train, bus and airplane appeared to equal or slightly surpass the large crowds of other years, a much greater number of motorists than usual began jamming the highways leading out of town last night.

Police Leaves Restricted

In the District, Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett announced that only emergency leaves would be granted policemen as a precautionary measure. All Maryland State police were ordered to full duty as of last night to handle the heavy flow of traffic expected on the highways.

The American Automobile Association reported few trouble calls, however, indicating that outgoing traffic was moving steadily.

"As long as this good weather holds up, we won't have any troubles," a spokesman said.

Meanwhile, District Traffic Director George Keneipp issued a warning about the "big three" traffic violations, which he said are primarily responsible for serious accidents.

Points to '49 Record

Don't speed, drive on the wrong side of the road or drive while under the influence of alcohol, he asked of motorists. He repeated the National Safety Council's forecast that there would be 385 traffic deaths in the Nation over the long weekend and called on Washington residents to maintain the city's fine record of last July 4, when it stood as the only major city in the country without a traffic fatality.

At Union Station, extra cars were put on all of the regularly scheduled trains, while some 20 extra trains were added to the schedule.

Extra buses were taking care of the crowds pouring into the bus terminals. Airlines added extra flights to their schedules and reported they were running up to capacity.

Traffic into Washington showed no heavy increase over the normal tourist trade of this summer. The Hotel Association of Washington reported "plenty of rooms available."

Council Adopts 1950-51 Budget In Montgomery

$8,715,471 Outlay; Suburban District Levy Reduced 5c; Tax Rate Is $1.90

The Montgomery County Council last night unanimously approved an $8,715,471 operating budget for the 1950-51 fiscal year, providing for a $1.90 tax rate and a five-cent reduction in the suburban district tax.

Total appropriations are $807,897 greater than last year's. The property tax rate is unchanged, while the suburban district tax is cut to 15 cents.

The budget includes funds for a $750 annual increase for County Manager Irving G. McNayr over his present $10,000 salary, and a raise in the pay of County Attorney David Macdonald from $9500 to $9750.

In passing the budget, the Council observed that income and expenses are fully balanced and that no refunding was necessary to pay off obligations.

The Council also appropriated $10,225,544 for capital improvements, separate from the operating funds. These capital funds, which come from county bond issues and State grants and loans, include:

School construction, $7,394,700; for roads and drainage, $1,222,500; new county office and health building, one million dollars; Silver Spring parking lot construction, $108,344, and a similiar program in Bethesda, $500,000.

Expenses under the operating budget included such major items as $751,051 for police and fire departments, with about $16,000 for raises of from $100 to $300 a man; $768,856 for the public works department, including road construction; $245,213 for the county health department, and $284,437 for finance department.

Total county government expenses, excluding schools, will be $3,269,198, a 41-cent share of the $1.90 tax rate. The Council appropriated $5,222,328 for the board of education, whose share of the tax rate was $1.42. The other 7 cents is accounted for by the expenses of the welfare board and the University of Maryland Extension Service.

The Council's total figures is $387,000 less than the budget proposed by County Manager McNayr, but the difference is one of bookkeeping.

That sum was transferred from the Department of Public Works to suburban district funds and earmarked for road maintenance.

Vehicle Hits Post

Tossed From Army Truck, Soldier Dies

A Fort Belvoir soldier died at Walter Reed Hospital yesterday of injuries sustained Thursday night when an Army truck crashed into a power pole on Telegraph rd., just off the reservation.

Post public relations officers identified him as Pvt. George T. Schultz, 20, a student in the engineer school attached to Company C of the 1st School Battalion. A native of Inglewood, Calif., he had been in the Army since last November and had been stationed at Fort Belvoir since April of this year.

According to post authorities, Schultz was riding in the truck with a group of fellow students en route to a night problem and was thrown to the ground when the vehicle struck the pole. None of the other occupants was injured.

Ill Man Fractures Leg, Readmitted to Hospital

Edward Fuller, 42, of 1806 I st. ne., suffered a fractured right leg about 4:20 p. m. yesterday when he was taken ill and fell under a Capital Transit bus that was standing still at the time in the 1600 block of Benning rd. ne.

Fuller, who earlier in the day had left Gallinger Hospital, where he had been a patient, according to police, was readmitted to the hospital. His condition was reported as not serious.

Joyce Dixon, 8, daughter of John Dixon of 4 Parkway dr., Forest Heights, Md., was admitted to Casualty Hospital in an undetermined condition after an automobile accident at Elmira and South Capitol sts. about 11:30 p. m. last night.

'Water on Brain'

Operation Saves Baby From Idiocy

By N. S. Hazeltine
Post Reporter

A 16-month-old girl smiled happily in her crib at Children's Hospital yesterday, freed from pressures on her brain that bring idiocy and death.

The child, Susan Wynn, underwent recently devised surgery on Wednesday in which one kidney was sacrificed to drain off pressing brain fluid through a built-in canal from the spinal column to the bladder.

The operation, designated "nephrectomy and laminectomy," employs a self-adjusting plastic tube to take care of continued growth of the child to maturity. Although performed in other cities for the past several years, Wednesday's operation was said to be the first of its kind in a Washington hospital.

Had Water on the Brain

Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wynn, of 3413 Webster st., Brentwood, Md., suffered hydrocephalus, commonly called "water on the brain."

Actually, the doctors explained, the condition results from excess production of cerebro-spinal fluid, the watery substance that cushions the brain and the spinal cord. About one percent of all babies born have hydrocephalus to some degree, but in the majority the condition adjusts itself, they said.

Where normal absorption processes don't accommodate the excess fluid production, as in Susan's case, the head swells and the built-up pressure damages the brain, bringing idiocy and death before maturity, they said.

Kidney Removed, Ureter Kept

Susan's operation, it was explained, consists of removing one kidney. The organ's ureter, or tube to the bladder, remains. Then, into this tube, the doctors thread a 5- to 6-inch plastic tubing. The other end of the plastic tube is similarly threaded up the center of the spinal column.

Susan's doctors said last night that it's still too early to term the operation a success. They can only hope that the immediate relief will prove lasting, they said.

15 Lieutenants Move Today in Police Shuffle

Fifteen police lieutenants will be transferred today, most of them in a routine change involving the "night-hawk" shift, Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett announced yesterday.

After serving the usual six months as "night hawks," the following lieutenants are being transferred from administrative headquarters:

Harry C. Blackman, to resume command of the special investigations squad; Reid L. Hammam, to the Eighth Precinct; Charles H. Warder, to the Ninth Precinct; Charles K. Williams and Harold E. Moore, to communications and records, and August R. Helwig, to the Tenth Precinct.

The following lieutenants will replace them as night inspectors during the next six months: John O. Curtis, of the Detective Bureau; Burt Sheldon, of the Tenth Precinct; Charles Van Meter, of the Third Precinct; Dan B. Kennedy, of the Twelfth Precinct, and Ernest P. Myers, of the First Precinct.

Four other lieutenants being transfered are: John J. Boyd, from the Traffic Division to the Twelfth Precinct; John E. Winters, from the Ninth Precinct to the Third Precinct; Karl G. McCormick, from the Eighth Precinct to the Traffic Division, and Herbert G. Wanamaker, from communications and records to the First Precinct.

Seven privates also will be transferred, including Pvt. Ernest N. Reid, who was warned by police officials for his part in the Capt. Anthony Richitt affair. He will go from the Third to the Second Precinct. The others are:

Helmuth B. Bernhards, from the First to Fourth Precinct; Delmo V. Pizzati, from the Fourth to the First; Robert S. Eichelberger, from the Ninth to the Detective Bureau; Lennie M. Daniels, from the Second to the Fifth; Kenneth A. Winters, from the Fifth to the Second, and Thomas S. Mangrum, from the Tenth to the Traffic Division.

Chest Funds Cut Off, Hospital To Halve Child Clinic Service

Free health services for District children are scheduled to begin "tapering off" today with the shutting off of Community Chest funds.

By the end of the "financial adjustment," officials of Children's Hospital said, the hospital's Well-Baby Clinic will accommodate only half of the 1300 infants and children now enrolled.

Despite the end of Community Chest support, Dr. Montgomery Blair, jr., hospital director, said, none of the children will be dropped suddenly from the program. To accomplish the halving, he said, new enrollments will be made "on a more selective basis."

At the same time, District Health Department officials said that budget cuts for the Bureau of Maternal and Child Welfare will not allow the bureau to take care of any added demands.

The budget cuts for 1950-51 fiscal operations, totaling $117,000 will be ignored in July budgeting in hopes that Congress will provide the needed funds, District officials said. Unless the funds are forthcoming, present services of the District's 13 maternal and child health clinics must be cut by 20 percent, they said.

William Wilding, assistant budget officer for the District, said the child-welfare "situation" may necessitate asking Congress for more money, even though some supplemental funds have already been requested.

The Well-Baby Clinic, operated at Children's Hospital by the Child Welfare Society, was hit by the decision of Chest fund budget-makers that the service provided is "an admitted responsibility" of the District. United Community Services officials, accordingly, gave the society only enough funds to operate through June 30.

The Child Welfare Society, thus stricken from the rolls of the Red Feather agencies, will carry on as a part of Children's Hospital, Dr. Blair said. Hospital funds, he said, will be used to keep the project going.

The clinic provides physical examinations, nutritional guidance and other preventive-medicine services to infants and children of Northwest Washington.

Salesman Indicted in Boss' Slaying

The grand jury yesterday indicted Luther R. Weakley, 49, 1217 G st. se., for first degree murder in the slaying of the man who fired him as a salesman.

Weakley is charged with shooting to death Thomas G. Carnes, 43, 828 N. Edison st., Arlington, Va., on May 20. Carnes was supervisor of the Blue Plate Foods Co., 316 F st. ne. A short time before the slaying, Carnes discharged Weakley from his job.

Weakley has admitted the shooting to police, but claims Carnes threatened him.

Two men were indicted for manslaughter in District traffic deaths.

Wade T. Cunningham was charged with driving "with wanton recklessness" on March 26 and causing fatal injuries to Joseph H. Fields, 68, 1609 5th st. nw. Cunningham's car collided with Fields' at 6th and P sts. nw. Cunningham also struck four pedestrians, police said.

George A. Branch was charged with manslaughter in the April 1 traffic death at 4th st., and Independence ave. sw., of Josephine Hebard, 28, 2519 Congress st. se., a cab passenger.

Branch was driving a truck that collided with the cab, police said. Before the coroner's jury, it was testified that Branch was driving under the influence of alcohol.

A furniture store operator was indicted on four counts of receiving stolen property and two counts of bribing a grand jury witness against him.

John T. McQuaid, operator of McQuaid's Furniture Co., 301 H st. nw., is charged with receiving more than $1500 worth of stolen chairs, tables and electrical equipment in July, 1948.

Robert L. Rogers, 43, 1140 Oates st. ne., was indicted for assaulting police officer Albert Palls with a dangerous weapon, an automobile, on April 23, and for assaulting an officer.

Rogers attempted to throw Palls off the car, after the latter had stepped on Rogers' running board to investigate a charge of driving without lights, police charged.

Eighteen persons were indicted on numbers and gambling charges. A total of 70 indictments were returned.

The grand jury ignored robbery charges against two Maryland University freshmen, Charles William Fuller, 21, 4315 Harrison st. nw., and John I. Sachs, 21, 1479 Harvard st. nw.

Driver Gets 6-Month Term In Auto Case

Declaring he would not allow Maryland highways to become "slaughterhouses," Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie imposed a six-month jail sentence for reckless driving yesterday in Marlboro Police Court.

Bowie cleared the driver, Paul G. Secchiaroli, 19, at the Anacostia Naval Receiving Station of manslaughter, in a traffic death but sentenced him to six months in the Maryland House of Correction on the lesser charge.

Another sailor, Henry E. O'Shea, 18, was fatally injured June 17 when an auto driven by Secchiaroli crashed into a pole on Crain hwy. near Wells Corner.

"Something has got to be done to stop this terrific traffic toll on our highways," Bowie declared.

He singled out servicemen as among the worst offenders, charging, "you men from these (nearby service) bases think you are jet-propelled when you get out on the highways."

He also fined the owner of the vehicle, another sailor, Denumn S. Begor, 19, $100 for permitting an automobile to be used in an unlawful manner.

Dr. Finucane's Service Hailed At Glenn Dale

Dr. Daniel L. Finucane, Glenn Dale Sanatorium superintendent, got a "surprise reception" yesterday in recognition of his 20 years of work with tuberculosis patients in Washington.

The reception was tendered at Glenn Dale and was attended by District representatives and Health Officer Daniel L. Seckinger.

Dr. Finucane was appointed assistant resident physician of the District's tuberculosis hospital on July 1, 1930, when such cases were hospitalized at Upshur Street Hospital. When hospitals were transferred from the Public Welfare Department in 1937, Dr. Finucane was made assistant superintendent of the sanatorium. He has been superintendent and medical director since August 1, 1939.

Born July 30, 1903, Dr. Finucane lives at the sanatorium with his wife and two son, Daniel, 14, and James, 9.

Gerstenfeld, Kogod

2 Renamed To Welfare Board Here

The District Commissioners yesterday announced reappointment of two members of the Board of Public Welfare for six-year terms.

Named were Dr. Norman Gerstenfeld, spiritual leader of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, and Fred S. Kogod, local theater operator and president of the Jewish Community Center.

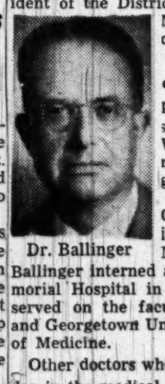
Kogod has been serving as a board member since August 4, 1944, while Dr. Gerstenfeld began his term on December 16, 1947.

At the same time, the Commissioners announced they would not reappoint Rowland S. Marshall, whose term expired yesterday. A District spokesman said Marshall is no longer a Washington resident.

The United Community Services and other local groups have been invited to submit nominations to fill the vacant post, the Commissioners said.

Dr. Ballinger Heads District Medical Group

Dr. William M. Ballinger, specialist in diseases of the stomach and intestines, today becomes president of the District of Columbia Medical Society.



Dr. Ballinger

The society's eighty-fourth president, he succeeds Dr. Walter Freeman, neurosurgeon.

A graduate of George Washington School of Medicine, Dr. Ballinger interned at Garfield Memorial Hospital in 1924, and has served on the faculties of GWU and Georgetown University School of Medicine.

Other doctors who take office today in the medical society include Dr. Frank E. Costenbader, president-elect, who becomes a member of the executive board; Dr. J. Bay Jacobs, first vice president, and Dr. Helen Gladys Kain, second vice president.

Big Prowler Wakes Girl But Screams Scare Him Away

A 200-pound prowler early yesterday awakened Miss Elaine Maupin, 19, of 1604 Varnum st. nw., from a sound sleep, but fled empty-handed when she began to scream.

Miss Maupin said she was awakened about 3 a. m. on the sleeping porch of her home when the intruder touched her on the face and whispered she was not to scream. As he tried to clamp his hand over her mouth, she screamed and he fled into the basement and out the door.

Her sister, Miss Dorothy Maupin, 22, was asleep in a room next to the porch. Also in the house were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maupin; another sister, Nancy, 17, and several uncles and aunts.

Western High Will Exhibit Central's Trophies, Memorials

The trophies and memorials accumulated by Central High School students over many years will be put on display in three rooms of Western High School soon.

The use of the rooms for the trophies and also for meetings of Central High School alumni was approved yesterday by the buildings and grounds committee of the Board of Education.

Central High School, which was founded in 1880, as the Washington High School, will be used by Negro students when school opens

The committee heard a report from Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning on the sale of three schools, turned back to the District Commissioners last year.

The Smallwood School at 3d and I sts. sw. was sold for $10,649; the Cranch School at 12th and G sts. se. for $22,500, and the Logan School at 3d and G sts. ne. for $18,500, according to the report. The money is credited to the public school system's fund.

Committee members voted to delay returning the Walker School at 3d and K sts. nw., and the Jones School at 1st and L sts. nw., to the District until an assessor has appraised them.

Committee members also voted to renew the Federal Government's lease for the McLean tract, off Wisconsin ave. nw., for another year. The school system owns the land but does not have an immediate use for it.

It was also voted by members to cover the corridors of the Shaw, Terrell and Hine junior high schools and the Syphax elementary school with asphalt tile rather than linoleum, because it is less expensive and more durable.

Woman, 60, Found Unconscious, Dies Of Heart Attack

Miss Alice Venable, 60, died of a heart attack at Garfield Hospital yesterday, several hours after she was taken from her smoke-filled apartment at 1477 Newton st. nw.

Miss Venable was found unconscious in her bathroom about 7:30 a. m. after neighbors saw smoke coming from a window and called police and Fire Department. The smoke was caused by burning toast, police said.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, after an autopsy, said death was due to a heart attack.

Harvard, MIT Gifts

Boston, June 30 (U.P.).—Stanley S. Kresge, son of the founder and a trustee of the Kresge Foundation of Detroit, today announced granting of a two-million-dollar gift to the Harvard School of Business Administration and $1,500,000 to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Capital Transit Is Sued Again by Lot Operator

A parking-lot operator at 14th and I sts. nw., renewed his feud with the Capital Transit Co., in District Court yesterday.

Charles B. McDonald, 1932 Good Hope rd. se., filed a second suit to enjoin the transit company from keeping a bus stop near the southwest corner of 14th and I sts.

McDonald charges that buses block the two entrances to his lot and cost him $30 a day in lost revenue.

A similar injunction was granted McDonald in May and the Public Utilities Commission ordered the bus stop moved 150 feet. But after a month's study, the PUC ordered the stop restored 10 days ago, chargng that traffic congestion was not caused by the bus stop.

McDonald asks $50,000 damages from the transit company.

Airport Bill Action Awaits U. S. Advice

House subcommittee action on the Senate-passed bill for a second civilian airport in the Washington area will await further information from the Department of Defense.

After a final hearing before a House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Subcommittee yesterday, Chairman Lindley Beckworth (D., Tex.) said his group would act as "expeditiously as possible" upon receipt of the military information.

Committee members earlier quizzed a Defense Department spokesman on why there are 5089 acres of military airfield around Washington as against the 700-acre civilian National Airport, while military planes account for only about 30 percent of total air traffic.

Lieut. Col. Donald H. Fischer admitted the 4489-acre Andrews Base is not being utilized completely, but said it is headquarters for the Military Air Transport Service and "is contemplated as the main military airport" for Washington's defense in emergencies.

The Defense Department, he said, does not foresee any military use of the proposed new airport, but a future national emergency may "require utilization of the airport by military aircraft in the interest of national security."

In view of this defense value, Col. Fischer told the committee, the Defense Department supports passage of the airport measure.

The bill authorizes 14 million dollars for site acquisition and construction of the proposed terminal.

Stuck Without Stickers

Arlington Police Chief Harry Woodyard announced yesterday that 188 summonses have been issued to county automobile owners whose cars don't have current inspection stickers. Deadline for the new stickers was June 15, but inspections can still be made by authorized garages.

Good Friday Slayer to Die November 3

William A. Tyler, jr., yesterday was sentenced to death in the electric chair November 3.

Tyler was convicted Tuesday of murdering two Lansburgh & Bro. department store watchmen on Good Friday.

The rugged 6-footer never winced as District Judge Alexander Holtzoff pronounced sentence.

The department store guards who were stabbed to death were John Carpenter, 66, and Oliver R. Hess, 57. Evidence was introduced at the eight-day trial that Tyler had broken into the store with intent to rob.

Tyler was arrested May 5 in the yoke robbery of a Southeast druggist and was connected with the Lansburgh murders by an acquaintance. He signed a confession, but during his trial claimed he had been tortured into signing it.

Ton of Fireworks Seized; Two Men Fined $100 Apiece

Two men arrested in connection with police seizure of a ton of fireworks were fined $100 each yesterday in Municipal Court.

James Archie Fabrizio, 22-year-old law student of Havre de Grace, Md., pleaded guilty of selling and delivering fireworks without a permit, and Sol Karl Shecter, 46, of Baltimore pleaded guilty of storing fireworks without a permit.

Police said they arrested the two men late Thursday while they were unloading boxes of fireworks in front of 1225 L st. nw. In two rooms of an apartment at that address police seized a ton of fireworks piled "ceiling high."

Shecter said he had intended to store the fireworks in a 5th st. warehouse for sales to Virginia retailers.

Widened Wisconsin Avenue To Be Dance Floor Tonight

A parade marking the end of Bethesda's Wisconsin ave. traffic bottleneck will highlight a full-day celebration at 11 a. m. today with Governor W. Preston Lane, jr. of Maryland as guest of honor.

The $339,488 widening of Wisconsin ave. from Glenbrook rd. to East-West hwy. was begun last August and is now completed except for sidewalks.

Today's parade will form on Wisconsin ave. just south of Jones Bridge rd. In the line of march through Bethesda to Leland st. will be Army, Navy, and Marine units, three bands, two drum and bugle corps, and at least 15 floats.

Street dancing at the Chevy Chase Motor Co., 7725 Wisconsin ave., at 8:30 p. m. will wind up the celebration.

Gold Key Hooch To Go Down Drain

'Down the drain'—normally a drinking salute—yesterday became a court order.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough of District Court yesterday ordered Attorney Samuel C. Caldwell, receiver of the Gold Key Club, 606 E st. nw., to pour some 500 bottles of booze at the defunct after-hours club "into any sewage disposal facilities."

Police had testified that liquor laws were being violated at the bottle club in that drinks were sold illegally. By court order, the club can no longer do business here.

Youth Admits Fire Killing 169 at Circus

ROBERT SEGEE
. . . blames "invisible" Indian

Columbus, Ohio, June 30 (U.P.).—A 21-year-old roustabout today confessed he set the Hartford, Conn., circus fire in which 169 persons died in 1944, the fire marshal of Ohio announced.

The confession, made by Robert D. Segee, detailed a long series of crimes, including the murder of four persons, and arson. Fire Marshal Harry C. Callan said two of the persons he admitted killing were identified as children.

Callan said Segee told him an "invisible Indian riding a flaming horse" made him commit the crimes.

Segee admitted he was responsible for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey fire when some 412 persons were injured in addition to the 169 killed. Six persons, two of them circus officials, were jailed on manslaughter charges as a result of the fire.

Callan said that in three of the murders which Segee confessed, the youth blamed the Indian riding through his mind. The official said three of the crimes had been verified but the fourth, the slaying of a Japanese youth in Japan, had not been confirmed.

However, officials at cities where the slayings allegedly were committed were skeptical.

The Japanese youth was killed while Segee was serving with the armed forces in Japan in 1949, the confession said.

Segee was discharged from the Army on the recommendation of the Medical Corps after a year's service.

He admitted also setting 25 to 30 major fires in Portland, Me., from 1939 through 1946.

Segee confessed after examinations by child psychologist Bernard Higley, who has had outstanding success in uncovering young firebugs.

Segee was arrested in East St. Louis, Ill., in mid-May after a number of fires broke out in garages, grain elevators and on farms. He was taken to Ohio and pleaded guilty to two charges of attempted arson at Circleville, where he is being held.

Guild Launches Move to Start New Papers

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The CIO American Newspaper guild yesterday initiated a move to get the unions into the newspaper business in communities with a single newspaper or editorial policy.

The guild's seventeenth annual convention, in its concluding session yesterday voted to get the ball rolling on an idea long kicked around in trade-union circles.

The proposal, as adopted by the 300 delegates in a four-hour session at the Statler, which broke up at 3 a. m. yesterday, calls for the guild itself to put up $50,000—subject to a referendum of its 23,000 members—for investment in a paper-publishing corporation.

A special guild committee is to take steps in creating a labor committee for expansion of newspaper publication, and through this interunion committee make the following moves:

Survey the needs for additional papers around the country, but meanwhile take immediate action in communities "where a need obviously exists."

Stimulate local unions, civic groups and individuals in creating a newspaper or, where necessary and advisable, start a newspaper, but always with the idea of turning it over to local interests.

Establish a code of ethics for operation of such papers.

Act to strengthen the existing labor press.

Interest "liberal farm leaders" in a parallel course of action in the rural areas.

Study the feasibility of setting up printing plants that may derive part of their support from printing trade-union publications; and which could print general newspapers of a temporary basis to aid any of the printing crafts in case of a newspaper strike.

The guild proposal calls for running the newspapers on a profit basis, but with safeguards to assure "liberal policies" and prevent "union politics" from influencing the paper's direction.

The newspaper publishing proposal was laid before the guild convention because of concern over the trend in this country toward consolidation of the daily press.

Redhead Slain In West Va. Is Identified

Berkeley Spring, W. Va., June 30 (AP).—A red-haired woman whose nude body was found along an abandaned road near here last May 10 was identified tonight as Mrs. Lottie Gibson, 31, of Akron, Ohio, the mother of two children.

At McConnellsburg, Pa., State Police said she was known to be the girl friend of James Preston Bishop, wanted in several States on various charges.

Police said it had been definitely established that Mrs. Gibson had been seen at the home of Charley Bishop, father of James, near McConnellsburg on Sunday, May 7.

Several members of the Bishop family were questioned today. Two members of the family figured in another slaying on June 17. Walter Bishop, 55, was charged with the fatal shooting of his brother, Lester, 35.

Police said they do not "know enough yet" to prefer any charges against anyone.

They said Mrs. Gibson's maiden name was Lottie Wolf, and that she was a native of Charleston, W. Va. She worked for a laundry in Akron, troopers said.

4 Convicted Of Robbing Mrs. Boldware

Four men yesterday were convicted in District Court of the $5600 robbery on February 25 of Mrs. Blanche Boldware, gambler's widow, at her home, 125 R st. ne.

Convicted of robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery were Ernest Price, jr., 24, of 2800 13th st. nw.; Leroy Bunby, 28, of 2238 8th st. nw.; James E. Craig, jr., 31, of no fixed address, and Clarence R. Holmes, address not listed. Price, Bunby and Craig were also found guilty of carrying a deadly weapon—pistols.

A fifth defendant, Burnie H. King, 25, of 2213 9th st. nw., was acquitted by Judge Jennings Bailey of charges of robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery.

Mrs. Boldware, widow of William Howard Taft (Sunshine) Boldware, numbers racket figure killed in a traffic accident in 1948, said she was robbed at gunpoint of cash and jewelry worth more than $5600.

House Backs Plan To Shift RFC to Commerce Dept.

The House yesterday approved President Truman's plan to place the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, now an independent agency, under the Commerce Department. The action was by voice vote.

The Senate, meantime, agreed to vote next Thursday on a resolution to kill the reorganization plan Mr. Truman submitted May 9.

Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.) who offered the Senate resolution, said the President's proposal runs counter to recommendations of the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization, which called for transfer of the RFC to the Treasury Department.

Fullbright is chairman of a special Senate Banking subcommittee investigating RFC's lending policies. He said the subcommittee would have to do all its work over again if the President's plan goes into effect.

Navy Orders Crews Back to 2 Cruisers

Los Angeles, June 30 (U.P.).—The Navy issued emergency orders today cancelling leaves of crewmen aboard the heavy cruisers Toledo and Helena, ordering them to return to their ships.

The two cruisers, recently returned from eight months of duty with the Seventh Fleet in Far Eastern waters, have been undergoing repairs in preparation for a return to sea.

Cook, Veteran Who Quit Jail In Germany, Gets 4½ Years

Munich Germany, June 30 (AP).—Homer Cook, 27-year-old jail-breaking Oklahoman, was sentenced by a United States High Commission Court today to four and a half years in prison.

Cook, a former soldier was convicted of 16 charges. He had pleaded guilty to four others, including jail-break, illegal entry into occupied Germany and impersonating a Federal agent.

He did not appear worried after his sentence. Shaking hands with reporters, he said "It could have been worse." Cook could have drawn 100 years.

Love for his German sweetheart, pretty, brown-eyed Anna Sporrer, a waitress, was his undoing.

Homer, a tall blond ex-boxer from Muskogee, testified he stowed away on the United States tranport General Rose last March to come here and marry Anna.

The husky Oklahoman broke jail three times since his arrest in April. He said he only wanted to get out to tell Anna he is "not a bad boy." He also escaped, he said, because he feared military police would "shoot me or hang me."

Anna testified in his defense, saying she wanted to marry the big former oil rigger, "even if he is convicted."

Suction Pulls Plane Rider To His Death

JAMES TROTTER
. . . snatched into space

Accomac, Va., June 30 (AP).—The cargo door of an airliner winging over the coast of Virginia flew open early today and a flier-passenger was swept to his death in the dark sea, a mile and a half below.

The victim was James Trotter, 32, of Miami. He was returning home on a charter flight of the Argonaut Air Lines from Newark, N. J., with 20 other passengers, most of them bound for Puerto Rico.

Just before Trotter was snatched into space, the plane's steward, Carl F. Knight of Miami, said he saw him beside the door.

Before he could ask him why he had left his seat, Knight said, "The door flew open and he was gone."

"I almost went through the door behind him," Knight told Civil Aeronautics Board inspectors later. "I grabbed a ladder and held on. The suction was plenty strong."

The plane, a twin-engine Curtiss C-46, put in at Norfolk and reported the mishap. It went on to Miami.

After daylight, three ships and a plane from the Coast Guard unsuccessfully searched the waters here off the central part of the finger of land that is the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia peninsula.

A 24-year-old restaurant concessionaire, who says he carries "every kind of insurance in the world except theft," yesterday found that he needed that, too.

He is James Knoebel, of 1042 Barnaby ter. se., a concessionaire at Bolling Air Base. Knoebel said he parked his car in front of base operations at Boling at about 2:30 p. m., and took some packages into the restaurant he operates there.

When he came back a money bag containing $700, which he had left on the front seat, was gone.

Knoebel said the $700 represented his weekly payroll.

2 Counties List First Polio Cases; Area Total Is 15

Arlington and Prince Georges County health departments announced their first polio cases of the year this week, bringing the area total to 15.

A 12-year-old Arlington girl, of the 700 block of S. 25th st., is being treated at Children's Hospital.

From Prince Georges, a 6-year-old boy of the 6100 block of D st., Capital Heights, is a polio patient at Providence Hospital.

The District has had seven cases so far thais year, Alexandria, one, and Fairfax County, five.

Belgian House Backs Cabinet Favoring King

Brussels, June 30 (U.P.).—The new all Catholic Government, pledged to return King Leopold III to the throne, received a vote of confidence in the House of Representatives today.

The vote was 108 for the government of Social Christian (Catholic) Premier Jean Duvieusart, 100 against, with one abstention.

The Westerns Need Target Practice

By Richard L. Coe

SOMETHING HAS GOT to be done about marksmanship in the movies.

The boys have been getting worse than erratic lately, a disease that seems to erupt from the common Western scourge known as plot exhaustion. The Metropolitan's new arrival, "Return of the Frontiersman," is especially plagued with this nerve-shattering illness.

Surely you've noticed it. A man can whisk into a saloon, whip out his rod and, in the name of civil humanity, shoot a rod out of a troublemaker's hand. It takes mighty good aim to do that, partner, but a few minutes later the same man is likely to go bang-bang-banging away at a man on horseback a few feet away and miss both animal and rider.

The cause of this disease in heroes and villains alike is, to be sure, plot exhaustion. If his aim were as good as it seemed a few minutes before, the story would be over and we'd be left sitting in a dark theater with a full extra hour on our hands.

The screen play by Edna Anhalt for the Met's current Wyoming adventure panders far too much to this erratic marksmanship. True, Leading Man Gordon MacRae may be new to the Westerns, so his aim mayn't be too steady, but who but Jack Holt plays his sheriff-father and who should be more firm on the bullseye than Jack, hero of a thousand epics? Yet, Jack misses a lot of critical shots which allow Miss Anhalt's yarn to continue its leisurely passage, and so do a pack of Jack's deputies. The way they let a band of bank robbers get away, all men and hosses unscatched, just shows you how far this disease has spread.

Apart from these shattering examples of bum marksmanship, "Return of the Frontiersman" is on the placid side. Sheriff Holt's son, MacRae, looks to be the villain who's killed a thug, robbed the bank, but if you've been to the movies before you know that the dark, petulant Rory Calhoun isn't as clean as he seems. Julie London doesn't believe in Gordon at first because he's always got a gun in her ribs.

MacRae is given a couple of chances to exhibit his pleasant voice; "The Cowboy" and "Underneath a Western Sky" are his ditties. Rory doesn't carry a gun most of the time, but he finally gets a couple of good scraps with Mac, thanks to the lazy marksmanship of Holt's crowd; some day they're going to surprise us and make Rory a hero, for which surly suspense I can't wait.

Don't go blaming bum marksmanship on a woman just because Miss Anhalt allowed the disease to run rampant. After all, Annie Oakley's still at the Palace, bulls-eyes all over the place.

I FORDED the Potomac the other night for a look at the Straw Hat Players in McLean's old town hall.

It's a small stage, about 17 feet wide, and some measure of the players' ambition can be noted from the fact that their first offering, "Tovarich!" requires three sets. Somehow, Fitz-Hugh has managed these.

As with all our summer theaters except the posh and elegant Olney (where I always feel I should wear a tie), the McLean spot drips informality; sawdust on the floor, noncombustible hay in the basket chandeliers and billboards of old drammers on the walls.

Jacques Deval's 25-year-old comedy about czarist Russians and bolshies uniting for Mother Russia has an extra pang this week, and I suppose we'll have to allow that Deval wrote more prophetically than the fluff first seemed. The French playwright was oh, so right, and he suggests we keep a firm eye on the oil-chocked boundary countries in Asia Minor.

The players are all young and their credits show a deal of radio, off-Broadway and summer stock experience. They're by no means outstanding and they're learning their trade; best of the lot is Frank McIntosh, who works as though he's been around a good deal. Since everyone is playing a European, it takes one a while to get over the feeling that none has even been east of Bedloe's Island. I'm afraid I never did get over it. This is nothing against the players, but it's their job to make you forget it.

Co-producer of the outfit is Tommy Brent, whose biography refers to his beginnings with Billy Bryant's Showboat on the Ohio and Mississippi.

That's about what the McLean summer theater comes closest to being—showboat style, with the river a mile or so away.

KTITH'S is springing a contest for move reviewing . . . Man Is Seized At Restaurant As Housebreaker

James E. Preston, 20, of Seattle, was charged with housebreaking yesterday, after a policeman arrested him at gun point in the rear of Trant's Restaurant, 1362 H st. ne.

Pvt. Charles W. Chaillet of the Ninth Precinct said he heard a noise behind the restaurant as he was making a routine check of doors. He climbed a 6-foot wall that overlooks the restaurant yard. Seeing a slight movement in the yard, he called for the prowler to come forth or he'd start firing, he said.

Preston emerged with hands raised. Chaillet then found the restaurant's back door had been pried open, he said.

Lobby Prober Clears Brannan of Charges

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan was cleared of illegal lobbying charges yesterday by Chairman Buchanan (D., Pa.), of the House lobby investigating committee. Buchanan said the charges were "completely unsupported."

Buchanan told reporters after a closed-door session that unless Republican members insist on further action the matter will be dropped. But he added those who attended the session indicated they "were satisfied."

The Agriculture Secretary had been accused by some Republicans of "illegal expenditure" of Government funds to convene a farm meeting at which he spoke in St Paul last April to promote the Brannan farm plan.

But Buchanan said that an investigation conducted by the General Accounting Office showed "the entire affair was above-board and thoroughly proper."

Buchanan said the GAO had submitted a report also on Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator, who has been under fire of Republicans for his advocacy of a compulsory health insurance program. He refused to disclose its nature, however, and said nothing would be released until the full committee report is completed.

Buchanan said the Ewing inquiry concerned "reported lobbying activities" while the FSA chief was on a trip to Europe. He did not specify what these activities were.

The committee chairman disclosed also his group had closed the books on another investigation dealing with a so-called State Department 'social lobby."

It dealt with who picked up the check for a series of get-togethers State Department officials recently staged here with various members of Congress.

Buchanan said no Federal funds were spent and that State Department officials took up a collection to pay for the refreshments.

The committee meanwhile deferred action on wheter to cite two witnesses for contempt.

Buchanan said he favored citing both Dr. Edward A. Rumely and Joseph P. Kamp for contempt, but that a vote was postponed in deference to Representative Halleck (R., Ind.), who could not attend the session.

Rumely, executive secretary of the Committee for Constitutional Government, has refused to give the committee information about his organization's book publishing activities.

Kamp, an official of the Constitutional Educational League, now is serving a four-month jail term for contempt of another House committee which investigated campaign spending in 1944.

Takoma Park's 60th Anniversary To Begin Today

A four-day celebration marking Takoma Park's sixtieth anniversary as an incorporated city will begin today in the mood of the Gay Nineties. Citizens will wear Gay Nineties garb.

The "60 in '50" events will include everything from a traditional Fourth of July parade and fireworks to musical events and a 10-mile marathon.

The show goes on at 8 p.m. today with a United States Navy Band concert at Laurel ave. between Eastern and Carroll aves.

Jobs in U. S. at 23-Month Top; Unemployment Rise Small

More Americans were at work in June than at any time in the past 23 months, with the 61,482,000 job total falling just short of the record set in July, 1948, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

It added that unemployment increased only 327,000 over May despite a flood of two million college and high-school students into the labor market. Total unemployment was 3,348,000, much smaller than expected.

Simultaneously, the Federal Reserve Board reported that consumer credit, another economic barometer, reached a new peak of $19,091,000,000 at the end of May.

In other developments, the Labor Department's weekly wholesale price index dipped a tenth of a percent in the week ended last Tuesday and the Agriculture Department said farmers' living costs rose this month to the highest level in more than a year.

The number of those working and seeking work in June hit a new high of 64,117,000 and officials sai dthe increase of 4,535,000 jobs since January probably was the sharpest five-month rise in peacetime.

Unemployment normally reaches a high point in June or July, but few experts expect it to top the 4,684,000 persons idle last February.

Change in Girl's Story Gets Man Execution Stay

Raleigh, N. C., June 30 (U.P.)—Claude E. Shackleford, 34, was nine minutes away from death today when a telephone jangled on the warden's desk. The Governor had ordered a stay of execution.

The 10-year-old girl Shackleford was convicted of raping had disclosed that she "did not tell the true story of what happened" when she was on the witness stand.

Shackleford was sitting in his death row cell when the news from Gov. Kerr Scott came. He was wearing the garb of the gas chamber—white shorts and a stethoscope strapped to his chest. A hearse waited outside the prison.

U. S. Files Antitrust Suits Against Outdoor Ad Firms

The Justice Department announced filing yesterday of two civil suits in Federal Court at Chicago alleging the existence of monopolies in the outdoor advertising field.

One suit was against the Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc., of Chicago, the Outdoor Advertising Association of the Northern States, and 46 State associations.

The group was accused of conspiring to fix commission rates payable to advertising agencies for securing contracts for association members with national advertisers and with eliminating competition among themselves by dividing markets.

The second, named General Outdoor Advertising Co., Inc., of Chicago, largest member of the national association. It was charged with monopolizing outdoor advertising in 1500 cities east of the Rocky Mountains.

Al Bauers, vice president of General Outdoor Advertising, said the suits are "without factual or legal foundation." The company, he said, tried "scrupulously" to obey the antitrust laws.

Loan Company Loses Suit to Get License

An auto loan company yesterday lost its court fight to force the District government to renew its license to sell insurance.

Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who heard the case brought by the Columbia Auto Loan Company, 2221 14th st. nw., against D. C. Insurance Superintendent Albert F. Jordan, denied the company's request. He said he found "the evidence preponderantly in favor of the defendant," and he was "not willing to accept the plaintiff's narrow interpretation of the act."

Jordan refused to renew the Columbia license on April 30, on the ground that he found the company "untrustworthy."

Oliver Gasch, assistant corporation counsel and one of the attorneys for Jordan, in his final arguments in District Court declared that when you "come into an equity court praying for relief with unclean hands, you should be denied relief."

Te defense presented three witnesses who testified they had received questionable treatment from the company.

One of these, Carroll Beaner, of 1718½ Tenth st. nw., said he purchased a car from the company for $395, making a $100 down payment. He said he agreed to pay the $295 balance at $10 a week for 50 weeks. He said that in all he paid $600 for the $395 car.

S. Dewey Gottlieb, president of the Columbia Auto Loan Co. and its majority stockholder, testified the company also owns Columbia Motors; that it sells cars and executes sales contracts, and sells the contracts to the Columbia Loan Co.

Lustron Lost $8412 on Story By McCarthy

The bankrupt Lustron Corp. lost $8412 on its venture as publisher of a housing article written by Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.), Senate investigators disclosed yesterday.

The Columbus, Ohio, prefabricated housing firm paid McCarthy $10,000 to write the booklet on Federal housing laws, and then paid $2762 to print 20,000 copies.

The firm recovered $4350 of the outlay by selling 15,000 of the pamphlets for 29 cents each.

The figures were made public at a hearing of the Senate Banking Subcommittee investigating Lustron's $37,500,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. They were supplied by Clyde Foraker, receiver of the film.

Lustron spokesmen had told the subcommittee previously that the expense incurred in publishing the pamphlet, including McCarthy's stipend, was regarded as "legitimate advertising outlay."

The subcommittee hearing also produced a vigorous denial from Ben Spector, vice president of Commercial Home Equipment Co., Chicago, that he overbilled Lustron $500,000 for trucking equipment.

RFC officials contend that Spector's firm defrauded Lustron by charging rental fees for 200 tractors to haul prefabricated houses to building sites, when actually only 160 such tractors were owned by the home equipment firm.

Spector testified that he had simply told Lustron that 200 tractors were "available" but had never claimed Commercial owned that many. The extra 40 tractors, he said, were "available" because they were specially built for Commercial Home, although it never took title to them and the manufacturer eventually sold them elsewhere.

Mrs. Mesta Resuming Parties

By Elizabeth Maguire

IF IT'S NOT raining today in Luxembourg, Mrs. Perle Mesta, United States Minister, is giving a garden party for American GIs. It will be one of a series of monthly GI parties which she initiated January 7 at an open house. During her recent six weeks' consultation in Washington, the parties were discontinued and today's fete will be the first since her return, and the first to be held in the garden of the legation.

The view from the legation is one of the most picturesque in Luxembourg. A park-like lawn flanked with old fashioned flower beds looks over a deep valley and winding river. An added attraction at today's party will be the presence of the Purdue Varsity Glee Club, which is now on tour of Europe countries.

Relatives Expected As Party Guests

Guests attending will undoubtedly include the Minister's family—her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Tyson of Boston, and her niece and great-niece, Mrs. Betty Lyeth and little Marguerite—who are nicely settled in Luxembourg in an apartment near the legation.

State Department's Alice Curran has been visiting Luxembourg after attending a UNESCO conference in Florence, Italy.

"The legation is just like a beehive," she writes, "Actually, the traffic is really astounding."

She is really leaving today for Brussells and The Hague, then London and Ireland and home mid-July.

Defense Commission Honors 2 Members

THE Mexican section of the Mexican-United States Defense Commission gave a reception yesterday in honor of Rear Admiral and Mrs. O. B. Hardison and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles L. Bolte. Admiral Hardison has completed a term as chairman of the commission and General Bolte has finished a term as army member.

The party was held from 19:00 to 21:00 Navy time (7 to 9 p. m. EDT) in the Carlton Room of the Carlton Hotel. In the receiving line with the four honor guests were the Mexican Naval Attache, Rear Admiral Antonio Vazquez del Mercado, and Senora del Mercado.

Guests attending included the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de la Colina, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. Willis D. Crittenberger, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Robert L. Walsh, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Milton E. Miles, Rear Admiral and Mrs. William O. Spears, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Antonio Vazquez del Mercado, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Alberto Salinas, Rear Admiral Ernesto de Araujo and Senora de Araujo, Major and Mrs. Arturo R. Espaillat and many more.

State Senator and Mrs. Francis J. O'Neil of Attleboro, Mass., entertained yesterday at a cocktail party and buffet supper for their daughter, Phyllis, whose marriage to Robert R. Hendon, jr., takes place today in the Shrine of the Blessed Sacrament Church. The party was from 8:30 to 11 p. m. in the north lounge of the Carlton Hotel, and was attended by members of the family, out-of-town guests and members of the wedding party.

Miss Virginia Wetherill, who will be a Christmas-time debutante, is entertaining a group of young friends today, first at a swimming party and picnic on Gibson Island, and later at a buffet supper party at her home in Kensington. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wetherill 3d.

Fresh Salmon July 4th Dish 'Down East'

With a fine disregard for color, New Englanders traditionally serve fresh salmon and green peas on July 4. This may be New England's way of showing its independence, but salmon steaks, white potatoes and blueberry pie more closely agree with the colors for Independence Day.

By July 4, salmon are at peak supply. It is then that argument is liveliest as the famous Atlantic coast salmon competes with the King or Chinook salmon of the Pacific for the flavor crown. Be your own salmon expert by sampling steaks of both varieties.

The salmon steak, a round cut of solid flesh with just a small center bone, permits a cook a lot of latitude. She can be as fancy or as simple as she likes as demonstrated by these two recipes from the Fishery Council:

Season six small Atlantic salmon steaks with mixed salt and pepper. Place them in a buttered or margarined pan. Sprinkle them with a small handful of finely chopped dill. Add to pan 1 cup of cream mixed with one-half cup of white wine and two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Cook gently until mixture starts to boil. Quickly reduce flame and allow to simmer slowly for 15 minutes. Then remove salmon steaks from pan and add four ounces of butter or margarine kneaded with one tablespoon of flour to the sauce and simmer for another 10 minutes. When sauce is done, remove from heat and briskly stir in two egg yolks. Reheat sauce if necessary and pour over salmon slices. Garnish and serve (6).

Roll six small steaks of fresh Pacific Chinook (King) salmon in salted and peppered flour. Saute until golden brown in butter or margarine, but do not put steaks in pan until butter or margarine is very hot. Remove salmon steaks and sprinkle them with minced parsley and a little lemon juice. Heat remaining liquid and pour over steaks. Garnish and serve (6).

Your Figure, Madame

Advice for Social Butter Fiends

By Ida Jean Kain

MINNIE THE MUNCHER is a favorite member of our reducing family. Minnie is the gal who gets so much pleasure out of eating. She's a born cook and goes by the slogan "When in doubt, add more butter."

MISS KAIN

Minnie's a very popular gal. She's so friendly and good natured — the kind who carries her own good time with her—so naturally she is invited out quite a lot, to luncheons and dinners . . . and teas galore.

A tea table fascinates Minnie. The flowers are so lovely and the table looks so inviting with the plates of assorted sandwiches and cookies and frosted cakes. Minnie still cannot decide on just one of an assortment . . . so she likes to sample one of each.

And as you know, Minnie has trouble keeping her weight within bounds . . . though she does try to be careful. But every time she determines to be firm about her diet, the phone rings.

"Minnie, I'm having a few of the girls in on Wednesday for luncheon. I do hope you can come."

"What time?" Minnie carols, happy to accept.

Belatedly she remembers her reducing intentions, but decides that perhaps the food won't be so very fattening . . . she won't eat the dessert. But when the hostess sets the pistachio ice cream and little cakes in front of her . . . well, it looks mighty good.

"I knew this was your favorite, Minnie," the hostess beams at her—and after all, what can a girl do? One simply cannot be impolite when her friend has gone to all that trouble.

This dietitian has always maintained that it is best to diet at home and eat when invited out—but there are limits. If you go to a good many luncheons, teas and dinners, there is just one thing to do. When accepting the invitation, ask the hostess then if she will mind if you do not eat dessert. After all, it's your company your friend is interested in . . . not your appetite.

Seriously, women who must watch their weight, perhaps even on doctor's orders, and are invited to one social function after another, must do one of three things: decline, which wouldn't be much fun; eat and gain pounds; or have an understanding with the hostess at the time the invitation is accepted.

The last plan should prove to be ideal for Minnie. After taking a firm stand in advance, our dieter can hardly back down . . . even when tempted. And so she can socialize and keep her health too. Happy day.

When you're away on vacation... your best friends won't tell you but The Washington Post will Suppose you could get a friend to write you every day while you're away on vacation to keep you posted on what's happening in Washington. The poor fellow would probably be kept busy writing page after page all day long—and even then he would have to go to The Washington Post to get most of his news.

Where else but The Post could he read Shirley Povich's daily sports column and all about those home-team Nats? Where else could he find Jerry Kluttz' "Federal Diary" and all the news from the "Hill"? Where else can he get Mary Haworth's column as well as the news of women's activities in Washington? Only in The Post!

Then you'll want to know what Bill Gold is saying in "The District Line," what your favorite Post comic strip characters are up to, what The Post columnists are writing about — Walter Winchell, Drew Pearson, Joseph Alsop, Walter Lippmann, Joseph Livingston, Dick Coe. Obviously, your friends won't tell you, they can't tell you. But The Washington Post will!

So why impose on your friends? Get The Washington Post yourself, by mail. There's a coupon on this page that will arrange everything for you. Send it NOW or phone NA. 4200 and give us your vacation forwarding address.

U. S. Newsmen Reach Rio on Brazil Flight

More than 30 American publishers, editors and Government officials arrived in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, yesterday on the inaugural flight of Pan American World Airways' new luxury stratoclipper Friendship, the Associated Press reported.

The party, which included Philip L. Graham, president and publisher of The Washington Post, and B. M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star, left New York Thursday and stopped in Port of Spain, Trinidad, Thursday night.

Airline officials hope to cut 11½ hours off the present flying time of 37 hours and 40 minutes between New York and Buenos Aires. The visitors, guests of PAA President Juan Trippe, will spend six days in Brazil.

Others on the passenger list included:

Thomas H. Beck, chairman, Crowell-Collier Publishing Co.; Elliott V. Bell, publisher, Business Week; chairman, McGraw-Hill Corp.; Richard E. Berlin, president, The Hearst Corporation; Jack Bisco, vice president and general manager, United Press; Erwin D. Canham, editor, The Christian Science Monitor; Amon G. Carter, publisher, Fort Worth Star Telegram; Norman Chandler, president, Los Angeles Times; Gardner Cowles, president, Cowles Magazines, Inc.; Fleur Cowles, editor, Flair Magazine; Virginius Dabney, editor, Richmond News Leader; John D. Ewing, president, Times Publishing Co., Shreveport, La.; George Healy, jr., publisher, Times-Picayune Publishing Co., New Orleans, La.; Lee Hills, managing editor, Miami Herald; Carl Hinshaw, California, senior minority member, Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, United States House of Representatives; William Randolph Hearst, jr., publisher, New York Journal American; Philip L. Jackson, publisher, Oregon Journal; Edwin C. Johnson, Colorado, chairman, Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, United States Senate; Dan Mahoney, publisher, Miami News; J. Loy Maloney, managing editor, Chicago Tribune; Paul Miller, editor, Rochester, Times Union; Maurice T. Moore, chairman, Time-Life-Fortune; Francis S. Murphy, publisher, Hartford Times; Edward J. Noble, chairman, American Broadcasting Company; Ogden Reid, publisher, New York Herald Tribune; Marc A. Rose, senior editor, The Readers Digest; Robert L. Smith, publisher, Los Angeles Daily News; James Stahlman, publisher Nashville Banner; Frank J. Starzel, general manager, Associated Press; Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, Willard L. Thorp; John N. Wheeler, president, North American Newspaper Alliance; Frank White, president, Mutual Broadcasting Company.

Falls Church Tells Court Of Finances

Falls Church contended in court yesterday that it could bear the burden of expansion if it wins its annexation suit against Fairfax County.

Lee M. Rhoads, a member of the city council and chairman of its finance committee, told the three-judge panel sitting in Fairfax Circuit Court that a reassessment of city property, combined with the added value of the new territory, would give the municipality ample borrowing power to finance necessary improvements.

Rhoads said Falls Church property will be assessed next year at $11,882,298—approximately double the value of land in the city today. To that figure, he said, would be added the $11,447,618 that attorneys for both side have agreed is the assessed value of property in the annexable zone.

The case resumes next Wednesday.

Va. Primary Registration Ends Today

Today is the registration deadline for Virginia residents who want to vote in the August primaries.

Central registrars' offices in nearby Virginia will be open the following special hours today: Arlington, 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Alexandria, 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.; Falls Church, 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Fairfax, 8:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. Precinct registrars in the area will be at home throughout the day.

To register, Virginians must be up to date in their poll tax payments.

Not Competitive Industry, Celler Says of Newsprint

Representative Celler (D., N. Y.), chairman of a House subcommittee looking into the newsprint industry, said yesterday that after listening to two weeks of testimony, he does not think the manufacture of newsprint is "really a competitive industry."

Most of the witnesses thus far have been officials of major United States and Canadian newsprint producers. Celler said a second invitation is going out to publishers to give the subcommittee their side of the current newsprint situation. He said there had been little response to an earlier invitation.

The subcommittee has been inquiring into reasons for the present newsprint shortage and whether there might be allocation of supplies or price-fixing by the producers.

Pre-Completion Showing
PIMMIT HILLS

We plan to formally open our exhibit home in Pimmit Hills in about 10 days, but so many buyers have come on the job and asked that we sell them a home now that we have decided to open one of the partially completed houses for inspection over this long holiday weekend.

We think we have the best 3-bedroom house in this area to sell at under $10,000. In addition to the three bedrooms there is a large cheerful living room with dining area, a fully tiled bath and a fully equipped modern kitchen with 7-foot refrigerator, 36-inch divided-top gas range and a Bendix washer. All homes will be fully insulated in floors, exterior walls and ceiling. Heat is provided by gas-fired warm-air furnace. All homes are situated on lots of ¼ acre and up. Located in nearby Virginia, on the scenic Leesburg turnpike, near Falls Church, Pimmit Hills is the ideal place to settle down.

Priced at $9,950, these homes can be purchased by veterans with no down payment and monthly carrying charges of about $62.50, including interest, amortization, taxes and insurance. Corner locations will cost $250 additional. A deposit of $300 is required with application to purchase. This deposit will be applied to settlement costs.

Drive out U. S. 50 or U. S. 211 to Falls Church, turn right on Route No. 7 (Broad st.) and continue 2 miles beyond traffic light to our sign on right. Our representatives will be on the property.

MARYLAND

EDNOR ACRES—Choice acre lots with 200 ft. on hard road, with elec.; several terms while you build; cleared or wooded. Kensington Realty Co.; LO. 3-1105. Eves., OL. 9382.

How to Accumulate Wealth From a Wise Selection of Acreage.
I bought Chevy Chase, D. C. about 45 years ago and built a big city there. Some of that land I bought from Mr. Glover, the deceased president of the Riggs National Bank. He bought that acreage for $70 an acre. I bought the same acreage from him at $3000 an acre. But time shows that with development of this property I bought the land cheaper at $3000 an acre than he did at $70 an acre. Some of that land is now worth a million dollars an acre, and when I was developing this Chevy Chase property I got letters continuously from one man who wanted to sell me acreage in the shopping center of Bethesda. I didn't buy it because I had my hands full with Chevy Chase. The Bethesda land now is worth a million dollars an acre. These same opportunities still exist. I own about a mile and a half front on River and Bradley rd. where they merged together overlooking Congressional Club. This is already developing into a great traffic center. Where traffic centers come, they are usually followed by a shopping center. If some developer will get a hold of this property and start a shopping center, it, too, will be worth a million dollars an acre. This entire neighborhood is ripening for a shopping center. I am building my own home there on River rd. right across from the Congressional Club. Sometimes a dozen automobiles stop on River Road to look at this home. My wife and I go out every day and we get a thrill just looking at it. I will sell all the balance of the land out there for 15c a square foot. Think of buying this land for 15c a sq. ft. and developing it which will make it worth a million dollars an acre some day as a shopping center. You can reach me at my home, WO. 0933. Fulton R. Gordon, owner. Brokers, attention.

This July 4th should START YOUR INDEPENDENCE
From Vacation Blues.
All agree!—Vacations are always too short. So it stands to reason that the person who comes out ahead is the one who turns his vacation expense into a lifelong investment of never-ending enjoyment. And this is the opportunity held out to you this historic July 4th weekend; you can become the proud owner of a spacious proportioned cottage site at spectacular Drum Point Beach, for as little as $350!—less than the cost of an average vacation for the family. Drum Point Beach has caught the fancy of all Washington. Here, packed into one fabulous development, is everything imaginable to make life a year round delight, including miles of white sandy beach for luxurious sun and salt water bathing; 4 fresh water lakes, perfectly lovely for swimming, canoeing, picnicing; rich areas of forestry for refreshing cool breezes; a natural protected harbor area for pleasure craft; best fishing waters anywhere, the Chesapeake Bay on one side, the Patuxent River on the other. And just think—the pleasures of all these wonders are yours to enjoy, together with your own cottage site, for so small an investment (pay $35 down, balance in small monthly payments).
This wonderful holiday weekend is just the time to put an end to vacation headaches; so come to Drum Point Beach, select your beautifully proportioned cottage site, and establish your independence from heat, noise, dirt and congestion of the city—start living at last. Follow these easy directions: Out Bladensburg Road, pass Peace Cross and on out to Landover Road, turn right on route 202, through Upper Marlboro on route 4 to Wells Corner, right on 416 through Prince Frederick for 15 miles, left at the sign to Drum Point Beach. Girl 'Governor' of Maryland Sobs After Election Victory

Annapolis, Md., June 30 (AP).—Dorothy Lee Renner, 17, of Pikesville was elected girl governor of Maryland today and burst into tears.

"Thank you very much," she sobbed as delegates to the fourth annual Girls' State cheered her victory in the State House.

Miss Renner polled 41 votes in balloting for the top post among the 98 high school juniors participating in the model government sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. She represented Franklin High School, Reisterstown, near Baltimore.

Katherine Louise Young of Westminster High school was second among the six gubernatorial candidates with 18 votes. This automatically made her Senator of Girls' State.

"Governor" Renner said she made no campaign promises. She won the hearts of her fellow teenagers with a monologue about a girl preparing for a date; it brought down the house last night at a talent show.

Members of girls' state, who adjourn a four-day session Saturday, were guests of Mrs. Lane at the Governor's Mansion for a tea party after the election.

Let Freedom Ring

Faith in U. S. Held Defense Aid

This is the last of a series of six articles, written on the eve of the Fourth of July, by an American newspaper correspondent just back home after five years in Europe and the Middle East.

By George Herald

CHAPTER VI

My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.
SAMUEL FRANCIS SMITH

Not long after my return from Europe I went to a party in Greenwich village, where a well-known writer expounded his ideas:

"God knows I am no Communist, but we can never beat those Russians. They've got an idea and, with nearly half of the world's population, that idea is dynamite."

"Never mind", answered a physics professor. "The only factor that counts in this world is power. As long as Hitler had enough bombs, planes and troops, his ideas won. When we finally outmatched him, our ideas won. It will be the same next time."

Both these men were cynics who didn't really believe in our cause.

Last week I listened to a class of school children reciting the Gettysburg Address: "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation . . ."

Spiritual Ancestors

One of the boys in the class was Sammy. His forefathers hadn't done anything of that sort. Rather, they had fought against each other in old world wars. His dad had come here only 10 years ago to escape persecution. Yet Sam recited Lincoln's words with the same solemn fervor as if his forebears had stood on Bunker's Hill. At least, the Founding Fathers were his spiritual ancestors.

I think Sam is a good example of what America stands for. It's all fairly simple. A new continent waited to be explored. Some daring men sailed for it and got going. More adventurers joined them. And others . . . and still more. Until the place was crowded with millions of the world's most courageous and enterprising people (otherwise they would have stayed home).

They could easily have upset the applecart. Dictators could have arisen. Feudal cliques could have claimed privileges. On the face of it, there was nothing to stop these people from making of their new country as big a mess as they had left behind in Europe.

But they didn't, as dictators, big and little, rose in Europe. Instead, they decided to do something unorthodox. They seriously declared that "all men were created equal" and should be free to engage in "the pursuit of happiness." At that time, those words seemed impossible of fulfillment.

But strangely enough, the idea worked. All newcomers were given a fairly even break. They could do what they liked, as long as they didn't hurt other people. No one was asked where he hailed from.

The story—certainly the second-biggest ever told—has its flaws of course, as the totalitarians in Europe pointed out to American correspondents. We all know that there is still injustice in our country. Yet a social experiment as bold as ours was bound to have imperfections for a time. As long as we are aware of them and strive to remove them, they cannot seriously impair our success.

I heard Europeans say that perhaps our success is too outstanding. I was told that in our abundance, many of us seem to have lost track of the spiritual values which produced all that plenty. But just as the atom couldn't have been split if, early in the century, a man named Einstein hadn't jotted some enigmatic formulas on a piece of paper, our happy land wouldn't exist, if a man named Jefferson hadn't written down a few immortal sentences in Philadelphia 174 years ago. Never underestimate the power of mere ideas!

Opponents Active

"You shouldn't harp so much on your material achievements," a Swiss publisher told me. "Most of them cannot be applied to conditions here anyway. People in Europe want to know more about the spirit that made America a living democracy, and how they can obtain the same results."

Meanwhile our opponents aren't asleep. They spend roughly twelve times as much on propaganda as we do. It is true that they are not always very subtle. One evening in Vienna, a Soviet correspondent wanted to sell me on the idea that Russia was a democracy.

"Just read our constitution," he said. "Articles 118 to 128 guarantee our citizens all the rights so dear to you, including freedom of speech, press and assembly."

I laughed and answered:

"Now, you know just as well as I do that . . ."

"Yes, but that's not the point," he interrupted. "Have you got any Soviet ideas in your Constitution?"

"I should say not and I hope we never will."

"You see," the Communist answered, "we acknowledge, at least on paper, that your basic ideals are valid and one day, as conditions in Russia change, we may even start to abide by them."

On this mid-century July Fourth, that day seems still mighty far off, but the candid Russian confirmed what some Americans are apt to forget:

We are the champions of the noblest cause on earth, a cause so unchallengeable that even the tyrants must pay lip service to it. If we sincerely live by Jefferson's words and spread the tale of their blessings, there is still a good chance that all mankind will choose Freedom before it is too late.

CBS Fixing Up Video Show for Sinatra

By C. E. Butterfield

NEW YORK (AP).—Latest jockeying between networks over who is to have what talent concerns Frank Sinatra and Hal Peary, creator of the role of the Great Gildersleeve. Both are being signed by CBS for radio and television appearances.

Sinatra

Sinatra, who recently made his video debut in a Bob Hope special on NBC, is expected to have an hour's variety show on CBS starting in the fall as competitor to part of NBC's Saturday Night Revue. His radio work will be primarily in guest spots.

Frank's last radio series was five a week on NBC. In going back to CBS he will be with the network that started him.

In his shift to CBS Peary, who began the Gildersleeve characterization a decade ago in the Fibber and Molly show and then branched out on his own, will have a new type of radio program, it was indicated.

LATE additions to the CBS summer schedule included "Cloud 9," a romantic musical series. It will have three broadcasts beginning July 7. Another is to be a revival of Pursuit, Scotland Yard Who-Dun-It, to run four weeks on Saturdays

"Wanted," NBC summer replacement to go in for Life of Riley on July 7, is a series based on crime cases in which the accused has not been captured.

THAT was quite a television sponsor deal which lined up Fred Allen, Eddie Cantor and two other comedians yet to be announced for an NBC Sunday night alternating series. It involves a reported $50,000 weekly for talent plus the cost for network facilities of around $25,000.

At the same time it puts NBC in a position to make a real competitive bid for the audience Ed Sullivan and his Toast of the Town variety have been gaining on CBS-TV. The new program will be put on opposite him, probably starting around October 1.

The move brings to a head plans about which both Allen and Cantor have been talking for some time. Allen ended his radio program a year ago to take a full vacation and look over television. Among other things he has been investigating the program technique used by Dave Garroway in Chicago, and it is possible he may adapt some of it.

Cantor, now overseas, recently left the MC post of Take It or Leave It with the announcement that when he came back on the air, it would be television.

Just who is to take the other two assignments already has set radio row to pointing to such prospects as Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis and Groucho Marx as among the possibilities.

The hookup is to consist of all available directly connected stations totaling by fall around 60, with 20 others relaying later from kinescope recordings.

The sponsor (Colgate), who has had a Sunday night drama half-hour, thus will be expanding his time to include the 30 minutes recently dropped by Perry Como's sponsor (Camel). At present the ex-Como spot is occupied by Sammy Kaye and his Do-You-Want-to-Lead-a-Band, while a summer replacement is going in for the drama.

Of the $50,000 talent cost, naturally the biggest item will be for the stars, but how much that will total isn't revealed.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Today We Start With a Cheerful Thought

Mrs. E. W. Allen of 308 E. Bellefonte ave., Alexandria, Va., was opening a stack of bills the other morning when she came across one from a life insurance company.

"Ah," she mused, "at least there's one thing that hasn't increased in price lately."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Lady-like mother cat and two charming kittens would like to be kept together if possible." (Ordway 7962.)

"Large male pup, good watch-dog, needs suburban home." (Adams 9544.)

"Lovable female dog, mixture of shepherd and hound, 8 months old; we're moving." (Lockwood 5-8708.)

"Two darling, housebroken 11-week-old kittens." (Otis 8777 after 6 p. m. weekdays.)

"Four solid black 6-week-old kittens; will deliver." (Alexandria 8611.)

"Clean, dainty cat, due to have kittens in four weeks." (Oliver 2221.)

"Past year's back issues of Fortune and Business Week." (Randolph 4959.)

"Pair of lively, well-mannered 3-month-old kittens." (Shepherd 9247.)

"Two beautiful, inseparable Manx kittens want a home together. Will deliver." (Wisconsin 8908.)

"Three healthy, affectionate 7-week-old puppies; their mother was a thoroughbred setter." (Tuckerman 3147.)

OVERHEARD

"With all this war talk going around, I got out my old uniform last night and tried it on.

Talk about tight! I couldn't even get the blouse buttoned."

"Don't fret about it. Pretty soon they'll be giving you one that's too big."

PATIENT'S PATIENCE

When the lady at our house checked into George Washington University Hospital for a one-day visit recently, I had to shell out a week's room rent in advance.

The hospital has no "arrangement" with the company from which I buy hospitalization insurance, though it's the world's biggest insurance firm.

And the rule is that, regardless of how long you're going to stay in the hospital, you've got to put up a week's board in advance. Cash.

The man who explains the rule to you is very sympathetic—but inflexible. A hospital must pay its bills, and can't afford the luxury of bad-pay patients.

Fortunately, I had $77 and was able to post the required collateral. But I found myself thinking back to the many days when I didn't have $77—and wondering what I'd have done.

When my patient checked out and I squared her bill, I asked the hospital to fill out a few lines of the insurance company's claim blank. "We'll mail it to you tomorrow," they said.

But that was well over a week ago, and repeated phone calls have produced no result. The blank is still going to be mailed to me "tomorrow."

I would certainly hate to be in the position of depending on that claim blank for tomorrow's table money.

There is no doubt a good reason why hospitals must demand money in advance. But there is also a good reason why some patients can't stand the jolt of sudden medical expenditures.

And it would appear that an institution which is swift in demanding prepayment should be equally prompt in letting the other fellow get his dough.

PERSONAL NOTES

S. N. Bandel, 200 Massachusetts ave. nw.: I'm forwarding your letter to our Circulation Director. He's the kind of guy who won't give anybody in the organization any peace until our subscribers get good delivery service.

A. M. Byron, 33 S. Fillmore st., Arlington, Va.: Nope, I can't take orders for just ordinary cats, either. Everything that's offered for the Give-Away department is published as quickly as possible, and all readers have an equal chance of calling the listed phone number.

VAGRANT THOUGHT

If the Nats pick up a few more Cuban players, next spring's salary disputes may have to be referred to the U. N. Security Council or the World Bank or something.

SIGN OF THE TIMES?

Gretchen Hood of 1226 Fairmont st. nw. stopped at a hotel newsstand the other evening to try to buy a paper.

"Sorry, we're sold out," said the man behind the counter.

"Oh, on account of the war news?" asked Gretchen.

"No," he sighed, "on account of the stock market news."

AND NOW, A BRIEF WORD FROM HIS SPONSOR

Drew Pearson has a brand new hat
As you can plainly see.
But can you tell us if it is An Adam or a Lee?
M. L. G.

I looked inside the Pearson lid
And found it was no Lee.
The sponsor that he dearly loves
Is Adam (currently).

Britons Discuss Use of A-Bomb

By Drew Pearson

Simultaneously with the Korean crisis two top British defense experts arrived in Washington for talks with Defense Secretary Louis Johnson. The fact that they came as the Korean crisis broke was an accident, but nevertheless it was significant that, simultaneously, Peter Geoffrey Roberts, Conservative member of Parliament, urged use of the atomic bomb against North Korea.

Pearson

For it is to discuss British use of the atomic bomb that the two experts were ordered to Washington.

They are: Air Marshal Sir Ralph Cochran, vice chief marshal of the Royal Air Force, and Dr. Richard Cockburn, an atomic scientist.

The two men were sent on direct order of Prime Minister Attlee, following a meeting of the British cabinet, to discuss future use of the atomic bomb by Britain. What they propose is:

1. That the United States stockpile a certain number of baby A-bombs in the Azores in mid-Atlantic immediately. Attlee wants this done for the purpose of strengthening European defense.

2. Should war break, Attlee also wants it understood that British bombers shall have the right to drop A-bombs. He is quite content to leave atomic bombs in American hands up until a war breaks, but after that, he wants British bombers to participate.

So far the United States has made no commitments one way or the other.

Conflicting Stories

Partially conflicting stories as to why we were caught off base in Korea were given the Senate Appropriations Committee this week.

Secretaries Acheson and Johnson admitted we had been caught napping, but Admiral Roscoe Hillenkoetter, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, read two reports to the Senators, one dated as late as June 20, showing that his intelligence agents had given a general warning.

When Acheson and Johnson appeared before the Senate committee in a secret session, Ferguson of Michigan asked both point-blank whether they had received any word of the impending attack. Both said they had not.

"It was a complete surprise," Secretary Johnson replied, and hinted that Central Intelligence was to blame.

Both men told the Senators they knew that the North Korean border was restive, but said the actual invasion had taken them completely by surprise.

"Why wasn't Central Intelligence on the job?" Senator Bridges, New Hampshire Republican, broke in. "They get——dollars from Congress. What are they doing with it?" (Bridges mentioned the exact amount voted for Central Intelligence, but later withdrew the figure as secret.)

Secretary Johnson shrugged his shoulders. "You'll have to ask Admiral Hillenkoetter," he said.

Secret Reports

The admiral was promptly summoned to appear before the Senate committee in closed-door session at 3 p. m. However, he did not appear. Later, it developed that he had been called to the White House. At 4 p. m., however, he arrived before the Senators bringing two secret reports warning of possible attacks on Korea.

One was dated August, 1949, and told of continuing activity along the border. The second was dated June 20, 1950, and told in detail of increasing border incidents, including a concentration of 65,000 to 75,000 Communist troops. These troops, according to report, were well equipped, with artillery, tanks, guns and ammunition of the type which the Japanese army surrendered to Russia. There were also a total of 195 planes, all late Russian models.

When questioned by Senators Admiral Hillenkoetter admitted he could not forecast the date of a border invasion. Skirmishes along the border might have continued another year, he said, or the invasion might have come the next day. It was not his job to evaluate reports, he said, merely to make them.

NOTE—A series of reports on Korean unrest and border activity had actually reached the State Department some time ago and Ambassador John Muccio, acting on them, made a special trip to Washington to obtain extra military supplies. The supplies, chiefly artillery to resist Russian tanks, were due this week.

No Russians in Attack

Asked by Senators whether the Russians were participating in the North Korean attack, Admiral Hillenkoetter said the Russians had a large military training center on the northern side of the border, but he had no report of a single Russian soldier in combat, killed or captured.

"Furthermore," he said, "I don't expect any."

Senator Knowland of California, great friend of Chiang Kai-shek, then asked if the Russians might next attack Formosa.

"They might strike Formosa as they did Korea," the admiral replied. "The attack might come most any time."

"How about July 15?" asked Senator Knowland.

"Yes, it might come any time," the intelligence chief admitted.

Note—It was one day later that President Truman ordered the Seventh Fleet to protect Formosa from Communist attack.

40 Workmen Strike Stratford School Job

Some 40 laborers yesterday at noon struck the new $1,500,000 Stratford Junior High construction project at Vacation lane and N. Military rd., Cherrydale, Arlington County. The issue was said to be one laborer's pay and whether he should be maintained on the job.

The contractor, Wise Contracting Co. of Richmond, was reported 60 days ahead of schedule.

Truman to Back James Roosevelt In California Vote

President Truman said yesterday he will gladly support James E. Roosevelt, his political enemy of two years ago, in his campaign for Governor of California this fall.

Roosevelt said he would "welcome" the President's help at any time.

Neither of them mentioned the fact that in 1948 Roosevelt led a revolt against Mr. Truman and tried to swing the Democratic presidential nomination to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Asked for commest on the recent North Carolina run-off in which Willis Smith defeated Senator Frank P. Graham, an Administration supporter, for the Democratic senatorial nomination, Mr. Truman said he was very friendly to Graham.

Then he added that if he were voting in North Carolina this November he would vote the Democratic ticket, the same as he would in any other State.
